

Romulus woman, son, 4, die in blaze

A Romulus mother and her four-year-old son died early Labor Day in a fire which gutted their family home. Four other persons escaped unharmed.

Dead are Mrs. Linda Kortte, 36, and her son, Terrance, 4, of 8284 S. Wayne Rd. The four who fled the burning house at 7 a.m. were: Franklin Huffman, the dead woman's common-law husband; a daughter, Marcia Kortte, 16; a daughter, Tammey Huffman, 10; and Tommy Carter, 49, a friend of the family.

Det. Larry Patterson of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department investigated the blaze. He said the fire was believed to have been started by a mattress set on fire the night before upstairs by the four-year old son, supposedly extinguished and placed downstairs in the living room by the front door.

The detective said Det. Sgt. John McKenzie of the state fire marshal's office confirmed deputies' investigation that the fire was ignited by the still smoldering mattress. Mrs. Kortte died of smoke inhalation after she went back into the house to call the Romulus Fire Department. Her son, who also sided of smoke inhalation, became frightened upstairs and broke away from Carter who tried to save him, Patterson said.

Millage election crucial

Fate of Huron schools could hinge on voters

Thursday, Sept. 7 (tomorrow), could be D-Day for the Huron School District.

District voters will decide at a special election whether or not to approve a 10-mill renewal for one year and a 2.24 mill additional levy for one year. On two previous occasions, Huron voters turned down the 10-mill levy when presented for a 10-year and a five-year period, respectively.

Should both proposals fail, the Huron School District could face dissolution by the state, one of several alternatives open, according to Phil Dalley, administrative assistant to Supt. Byron Antcliff.

At last week's board meeting (Thursday), the board instructed the administration to prepare its recommendation for a general school program once the outcome of the millage election is known.

The Huron School District will be unable to adopt its 1978-79 budget as required prior to the election because specific revenues cannot be determined until voters have their say.

Adding to the district's problem is dwindling enrollment, down to 3,100 from a high of 4,003 last school year, resulting in decreased state aid.

In other action, the school board voted Wednesday, Aug. 30, to raise lunch prices during the coming school year by 10 cents. Noon lunches will now cost 65 cents for elementary pupils, 70 cents for junior high and high school students and $1.5 for adults, Dalley said.

Trustee Leo Kyko suggested that the board limit its discussion at meetings with the superintendent so as not to go past 9 p.m. Last week's talk between the two will be continued at a later meeting in an attempt to clarify conditions stated in the superintendent's contract.

In other action at the Aug. 24 session, the Huron board accepted the combined low bid of 4.95 percent from the Erie State Bank of Monroe and Michigan National Bank on a loan of $1,270,831.

Dalley explained that the school district is borrowing the money in anticipation of property tax revenues and state aid funds due later in the school year. He said almost all school districts employ his practice because of the timing involved.

School districts need their money when school starts and are not able to wait until about Christmas when revenues begin to come in," Dalley explained.

Also passed by the board at the Aug. 24 meeting was a resolution that trustees would end their regular meetings at 11 p.m. and would take care of unfinished business at a later session.

Dalley said, "If the board's regular business is not done by 10:30 p.m., it will be stopped then to give members of the audience the opportunity to speak."

Breaks up to teachers

Schools get new schedule; noon recess time eliminated

A revised elementary school schedule calling for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. school hours and the elimination of mandatory recess at noon was approved unanimously by the Romulus Board of Education last week (Monday).

The board's action came after the new schedule was explained in detail to a handful of parents who had turned out to protest no recess for their youngsters.

Wayne Avery, board president, said the new plan would give students more instructional time in classes than a year ago due to cutting out of the recess period at noon. Under the old schedule, students went to school from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with recess included.

Answering complaints from the audience that students in the primary grades needed time to stretch and run and play during such a long period of class time, he explained that teachers could at any time take youngsters out for a 15-minute break in both the morning and afternoon.

"As professionals who know what they're doing, they can best tell if and when pupils need to go out for a break," he said.

Avery told the audience that the school system would save about $31,000 by not having to pay for playground supervisors during the noon-time recess period. He said the board believed the new schedule should be given a chance to see how it fares.

Board members told the audience that it had ordered the administration to provide reports in both October and November on how the new schedule was going over.

Avery commented, "If the new plan does not work out, we will go back to the old schedule."

Critics in the audience cited art and music being given to students on an alternate semester basis and that they felt the restoration was not 100 percent, depriving them of class time in the two subjects.

"Some students are given art one semester and music the other semester. When the next semester arrives, they are switched with another group who has taken the opposite courses. The children receive the same amount of class time as before," Avery said.

The board also replied to members of the audience who complained that the school system was not meeting its commitment to full restoration of programs and activities cutback prior to successful passage of an 8.5 mill levy.

The board president said the schools had followed recommendations made by two citizen committees on what should be restored if the 8.5 mill levy passed.

Avery said more than a year ago and before the cutbacks were made, it was pointed out by at least one board member and some committee members that 10 mills, possibly 13 would be needed to fully restore all of the programs and activities cut out.

"There's not much that had not been restored," he said. "I think we've done a good job with the 8.5 mills available to us."

Avery told the Roman that the board listened patiently to members of the audience for almost two hours before answering queries from them.

"We are trying desperately to show the community that we're above board and trying to do the right thing," he emphasized.

Adult ed week to start

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley signs proclamation designating Sept. 11-15 as Adult Education Week in the city. The proclamation was given to William Smith (at right), adult education director for the Romulus school system. Oakley said the week's observance will draw attention to the many adult services offered by local schools. Activities offered this coming year under the adult ed program include free adult high school, adult hobby classes and free GED testing. Registration must be completed by Sept. 15 and information can be obtained by calling 941-0610. (Photo by Jay Young.)

2nd Year marked by We the People

A personal commendation from Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley helped launch We the People on its second anniversary of involving citizens in local affairs.

Two years ago, We the People started out with 10 members dedicated to having their non-political, non-partisan organization bring civic issues and programs before the general public. Today, more than 70 card-carrying members belong to the group, with more joining every month.

In his congratulations, the mayor said, "They have provided a valuable opportunity over the last two years of informing our citizens on matters of vital importance and interest to the community. I wish them continued success; they are a true asset to our city."

Dick Campbell, chairman of the group, said, "I am grateful for all of the help given us by the city and by the local news media."

Campbell was joined by Mrs. Midge Prybyla, who heads the activity and membership committee, in urging local residents to become members and help the organization accomplish its goals.

She commented, "We the People was formed in Romulus because we feel there is a need for citizen involvement in the problems of our city and that this should come from the citizens themselves rather than the politicians."

She said the group attends council meetings, special hearings, reads the newspapers and concentrates on items that concern the city and its problems.

"We do everything we can to be

Charge reduced

Driver out on bond in death of picket

Robert J. Tringale, 31, of Grosse Pointe Shores, whose truck Aug. 24 struck and killed a picket on strike at a Romulus plant, was released on $10,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter in his appearance Thursday in Romulus 34th District Court.

District Judge James Stone reduced the original second-degree murder charge to manslaughter because the evidence did not show malice on the part of the defendant. The charge carries a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison.

Tringale will appear for examination Friday, Sept. 29, in the Wayne County Circuit Court annex in Westland.

According to investigating officers from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Tringale delivered and unloaded produce at Distron Division of Burger King, Inc. On his way out an object thrown by a striking picket smashed a window on the truck, police said.

Officers reported Tringale then came back about 10 minutes later at a high rate of speed. His truck hit and killed John Farhat, 35, of Taylor.

Tringale turned himself in to police about three hours later, accompanied by a prominent Detroit criminal lawyer, Neil Fink. The defendant worked for his father, who owned the Michigan Repacking Produce Co.

Last week, Det. Frank Buron charged that someone in authority with Local 299 of the Teamsters Union had told member pickets and Harhat's common-law wife, Yvonne, to keep quiet about the case. Teamster officials denied the charges.

Benefit scheduled for kidney victim

A group of concerned Romulus citizens will sponsor a benefit dance to raise funds to help pay medical and related expenses incurred by Elaine Rishel, local fifth grader who recently underwent a kidney transplant.

The benefit dance will be held from 8 p.m. until midnight Friday, Oct. 20, at the Progressive Hall, Ozga Road at Five Points. Music will be provided free of charge by "The Soft Touch."

All proceeds will be donated to the Elaine Rishel medical fund - trust, Manufacturers National Bank, 36450 Goddard Rd., Romulus.

The 11-year-old child nearly died prior to her transplant, and at one point, had given up the will to live. Her father, Robert, shortly after the operation went on strike and Blue Cross-Blue Shield stopped paying its portion of medical costs.

Tickets will be $7.50 per person and are available from Mrs. Jo Canejo, 941-1928; Johnny Johnson, 941-0088; or Mayor William M. Oakley's office, 941-0666.

Romulus Elementary sold for $200,000

The Romulus Board of Education last week (Monday) approved the sale of the Romulus Elementary School for $200,000 to North Cranbrook Associates.

However, Supt. James Garfield said the sale would be contingent upon the board attorney working out final details with the firm.

Garfield said the school will be used by the school district for the entire 1978-79 school year.

If North Cranbrook Associates does buy the building and grounds, it has plans only for the land. It plans to tear down the school structure, but will use the ground to build a senior citizens drop-in center.

The center will be added to the present recreation department building. The site was chosen because it affords senior citizens excellent proximity to downtown business establishments and services.

In other business, the school board signed a contract to complete the development of athletic facilities at North Jr. High School. Garfield said the main items will be the football field and running track.

Also voted in was transportation for all K-2 students throughout the entire Romulus school district. The matter had been under study the board which received a report on the transportation program from the school administration.

New Romulus courthouse opens

The new courthouse building for the Romulus 34th District Court in the civic center complex is now in operation. Formal grand opening will take place after new furniture

animals
be free

A baby raccoon looks like the perfect pet to a child. The temptation to carry the animal home is often too great to resist. But wildlife babies do not make good pets, according to a new publication from the National Wildlife Federation.

"Let It Be - Wild and Free" is a 12-page pamphlet available free of charge for the first copy and 25 cents for each additional copy. It is designed to teach children what to do if they find an apparently orphaned baby animal.

The four-color pamphlet points out that while a wildlife pet can be cute and cuddly as a baby, the animal can grow up to be destructive and even dangerous. Caring and keeping a wild pet also can be a violation of wildlife conservation laws.

What should a child do if he or she discovers an abandoned or injured baby bird? The pamphlet answers that question in detail, outlining ways to repair broken wings and legs, how to keep birds warm, and what to feed them. But, the pamphlet concludes, "Nobody is as good a parent to a baby bird as the parent birds themselves."

For copies of "Let It Be - Wild and Free" write the National Wildlife Federation, Dept. WF, 1412 16th St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Romulus residents take steps to fight neighborhood crime

Residents from the southeast section of Romulus banded together last week to spread the word loud and clear; burglaries, vandalism and general lawless behavior are not going to be tolerated in their neighborhoods from now on.

Their decision came at a meeting of some 75 citizens from the Meadows, Applewood and Cinnamon Ridge subdivisions who gathered at Hale Creek School to hear a crime prevention expert explain how they can organize a "Neighborhood Watch" program in their area.

The gathering was an outgrowth of a series of preliminary meetings between residents and city officials who are concerned over the rash of breaking and enterings and acts of vandalism that have plagued the area recently.

The Neighborhood Watch action was suggested as a solution because of the successful results achieved by other cities that have implemented the program nationwide.

As explained by Dr. Truman Walrod, public affairs director of the National Sheriff's Association, who flew in from Washington, D.C. especially for the meeting, Neighborhood Watch is loosely structured to meet the individual needs of diverse neighborhoods.

The program, sponsored by the NSA, revolves around a series of instructional materials that teach residents how to buglar-proof their homes while keeping an eye out for their neighbors' property.

As pointed out by Walrod, its success is largely contingent on the cooperation and common efforts of a large core of involved residents.

Some of the major facets of the program include: home security inspections performed by local law enforcement officers, designated "block watchers" a personal property ID marking system and printed materials that range from telephone emergency stickers to street signs and placemats proclaiming the Neighborhood Watch message.

After speaking for 20 minutes, Dr. Walrod opened the meeting to questions from the audience which lasted for another hour and a half.

Mayor Oakley, who answered many of the specific questions dealing with Romulus, committed himself and the sheriff's deputies to do whatever is necessary to deal with the problem.

However, he added, "we will need your active help and support."

The crowd answered his appeal by signing volunteer sheets and pledging to spread the word among their neighbors before the next meeting, which will begin the training sessions.

Accompany Mayor Oakley were Council President Mary Ann Banks, Arthur McPharlin, principal of Hale Creek and host for the evening and Wayne County Sheriff's representatives Al Pawlak and Jerry Billiter.

All citizens of Romulus who are interested in forming a similar group in their neighborhood are encouraged to call the sheriff's department at 942-9660 or Mayor Oakley at 941-0666.

Linen party slated

The Michigan Degree of Honor, a civic organization, has announced that its Romulus Lodge 132 will be hosting a Linen Bingo Party on Monday Sept. 11, at the Romulus VFW Hall on Huron River Drive.

Nabbed on premises

Two men charged in house breakin; neighbor helpful

Two men were charged with breaking and entering a Romulus residence after they were caught on the premises at 38803 Ecorse Rd., thanks to an alert neighbor and speedy work by sheriff's deputies.

Noticing a car twice back into a neighbor's driveway across the street, but staying on the second trip, a Romulus resident called the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to report two men getting out of the car and walking to the back of the house.

The resident told officers she knew her neighbor, Bernard Cantrell was not at home and became suspicious. The time was about noon on Aug. 21.

Within minutes three sheriff's patrol cars arrived and shortly after Officers William Wadsworth and Don Twitchell nabbed Larry V. Benso, 41, of Wayne, Mich. exiting from a broken rear window.

After entering the house, the two officers found Timothy G. Mann, 20, of Romulus, hiding beneath a bed in the rear bedroom of the house.

During this time, the third deputy, Patrolman Gerald Gutz, had stood guard duty at the rear of the structure.

Both men were charged with the breaking and entering of an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny.

Officers reported both men had brown gloves in their possession. A silver tea serving had been set out on a table and a brown paper bag filled with watches and small coin banks was found lying on the bed in the main bedroom, officers said.

Both Benso and Mann waived preliminary examination last week (Wednesday) in Romulus 34th District Court and were released on $5,000 bond each. They were bound over for trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Hilton buffet debuts

A buffet style luncheon tailored to meet the short lunch hours of businessmen and others is now being featured in Delphine's Lounge in the Hilton Inn, 13500 Wick Rd., Romulus.

While they dine, Delphine's customers can relax to the piano music of Jimmie Dixon in the background. Reservations are not necessary, according to Donna Salemi, Hilton's director of sales.

Immediately next door, Delphine's Restaurant serves breakfast, lunch and dinner from 6:30 a.m. until 2 a.m.

Hours for the lounge run from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., with a "happy hour" from 5 to 9 p.m. daily.

3 Hurt badly

5 Burned in explosion

Five men were burned, three seriously, Thursday afternoon in an explosion on the site of a building under construction on Harrison Road, south of Wick Road, in Romulus.

Most badly burned was Arthur Kupkowski, 32, of Detroit, who was transferred to the burn center at University of Michigan Hospital from St. Joseph Hospital, Ypsilanti, where he was first taken for treatment.

Also taken to St. Joseph with serious burns were Tony Vann, 26, of Garden City, and Paul Terri, 57, of Detroit.

Receiving minor burns and taken to Heritage Hospital, Taylor, were Robert Knudsen, 47, of Westland, and Thomas Terri, 49, of Westland, a brother to Paul Terri. Both men were released after treatment.

Det. James Chubb, who investigated the explosion at the R. L. Coolsaet Construction Co. for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, said the explosion occurred about 1 p.m. when Kupkowski and the older Terri were putting a "T" into a gas line in a ditch on the firm's grounds.

Vann, Knudsen and the younger Terri were standing above the ditch and did not receive the full impact of the explosion, the detective said.

Chubb said the work being performed by the men was routine and that no cause had been found for the explosion.

Kids find body

Police have identified a body of a black male dumped in Romulus and discovered Labor Day afternoon by a group of children playing in the area.

The body, found about 5:30 p.m. 25 feet off of Wahrman Road, south of Grant Road, has been identified as Harol Graham, 25, of Detroit, according to Lt. Don Smith of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Smith reported that several gunshot wounds had been inflicted to Graham's body. The investigation is continuing, he said.

We the People marks date of its second anniversary

Campbell stressed that We the People does not take sides, but chooses to appraise the public of the facts surrounding both sides of political issues.

He explained that the organization is devoting current efforts in the investigation of drug problems among local school age children. He added that law enforcement officials and the city administration have pledged to render assistance in the fight against drugs.

Mrs. Prybyla said the group's work in this direction might not be considered "exciting" but that it certainly "is helpful to our community's children."

Only twice in the two years of its existence has We the People made any endorsements and those have been for local programs it felt were needed in the community.

Their first endorsement was to back more housing for senior citizens of the Romulus community. Their second and current endorsement calls for support of a $250,000 project over a 10-year period to develop a baseball complex at Beverly and Henry Ruff roads behind Beverly Park Campbell said.

The complex is being developed by the Romulus North Little League Baseball, Campbell said.

We the People attempts to hold public sessions on matters of community interest in conjunction with its regular meetings on the fourth Thursday of each month.

Perhaps, the organization is best known for its Meet the Candidates Night during which candidates for local offices are given the opportunity to speak on their candidacy and to answer questions from the audience.

During the last local election, We the People joined with Associated Newspapers in presenting a Meet the Candidate Night at Romulus High School. The occasion was hailed an outstanding success by most townspeople.

Included in the list of informed persons which We the People has brought in for its meetings over the last two years are:

Representative of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department who explained the work being done by the Romulus volunteer police;

Councilman James Raspberry who discussed the one percent tax collection fee; Assessor Dave Krause who explained the recent property reassessment in Romulus; Leo Sklar, appointed by council as senior citizen housing developer, who told why the Romulus Elementary School property was needed; Dennis Fassett, managing editor of Associated Newspapers, who spoke on the newspaper's role in the community; and Sen. William Faust's assistant, Bill Kandler, who discussed the importance of citizen groups.

Of the $10 annual membership fee charged by We the People to its members, most goes for mailing and printing costs involved with its operation, Campbell said.

Of great satisfaction to the group is the fact that it has received several inquiries from other communities on how to start such an organization in their area.

Both Mrs. Prybyla and Campbell issued an invitation to interested citizens to come to their regular meetings at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Thursday of the month in the community room of the Romulus City Hall.

Police warn of gypsy band

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department has issued still another warning for Romulus residents to be on the lookout for a band of gypsies who periodically fleece the elderly out of valuables and money.

"Under no circumstances admit anyone to your home, sign no agreements, make no cash payments. Notify the sheriff's department at 721-2222 if you see the typsy band in your area," the reminder from sheriff's office stated to Romulus residents. According to deputies, the band of gypsies live around the Toledo area and occasionally drive up the Detroit suburbs to prey upon senior citizens too old or too ill to defend themselves.

Deputies say the gypsies are good actors and employ such pretenses as feeling faint or needing a drink of water when one of them, usually a woman, comes to the door.

Officers said some of the gypsies offer to do odd jobs such as painting, fixing roofs or repairing driveways.

"The gypsies will use whatever trick that seems appropriate to take a victim by surprise and to get them off guard," the warned.

Deputies said many of the victims are too afraid to report such incidents for fear of reprisals by gypsies. They urged victims to call them and assured them their names would be kept confidential.

Livestock winners at fair

When the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair opened its doors earlier this month animals like Tippy (left), a crossbred Hereford-Angus, and Holly, a purebred Maine Anjou, were among the top attractions along with their owners.

systems and naval guns, including the electrical, mechanical and hydraulic systems of each. Additionally, they studied the use and safe handling of ammunition, fuses and pyrotechnics.

A 1975 graduate of Airport High School, he joined the Navy in January 1978.

Navy Electronics Tech. Seaman David M. LeCroix, the son of Harvey E. LaCroix of Collins, Romulus, has completed the Navy's Basic Electricity-Electronics Course.

ciples of alternating and direct current circuits. Students also received instruction on basic circuit testing methods, including the use of multimeters and audio signal generators.

He joined the Navy in March 1978.

Navy Electronics Tech. 2.c. Raymond C. O'Donnell III, the son of Raymond C. O'Donnell Jr. of Belleville, recently returned from an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

Navy Seaman Recruit Steven R. Schmidt, the son of Joseph A. and Carole D. Schmidt of Hamilton Court, Belleville, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He joined the Navy in June 1978.

If you're planning to move to another home, now's the time to think about how many phones you might need in your new home and what kind of changes you might need in your phone service. A little planning can help you avoid unnecessary installation charges.

Call your Michigan Bell Service Representative. Allow enough time before moving for a full explanation of service and equipment options and time to order the phone service you need when you need it. Remember, once your new service is installed, extra visits by your installer mean extra expenses for you, expenses we'd rather you didn't have to pay.

YWCA resumes Encore

Encore, the postmastectomy rehabilitation program sponsored by the Western Wayne County YWCA of Western Wayne County, will begin a new year at Woodworth School in Dearborn on Sept. 13.

The weekly sessions will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The program is open to any woman who has had a mastectomy any time after three weeks following surgery and with a doctor's written permission. The fee is $2 per session.

The basic aim of Encore is to provide physical and emotional rehabilitation through exercises, as well as supportive group discussions. At the weekly session, the 90 minutes is divided in to a half hour of gentle exercise done to soft music, a half hour of swim exercise — one of the quickest ways to redevelop muscles and regain flexibility — and a half hour of discussion — receiving practical information and sharing experiences or feelings.

A nationwide YWCA program, Encore serves as a vital support system for women who have experienced the crisis of losing a breast — either recently or many years ago.

To insure a high quality of standards and safety program there is an advisory committee made up of representatives from both the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the American Cancer Society, social workers, doctors and nurses.

Audrey Wasserman, area program director, and Nancy Clauer, swim instructor, will be conducting the Encore sessions. For further information or registration, contact Ms. Wasserman at 561-4110.

'College Can Be Killing' surveys student suicides

For many young people college is a place where higher education is mixed with a liberal portion of dorm parties, pep rallies and other social amusements. For others, though, college can be killing.

"College Can Be Killing," to be seen Monday at 10 p.m. on Channel 56, is a one-hour investigative report on how colleges deal with student stress, anxiety and potential suicide.

There are approximately 12 million students enrolled in colleges today, and the competition is intense. The University of Chicago School of Medicine, for example, had 5,800 applications for only 104 openings. Paul Ginsberg, dean of students at the University of Wisconsin, admits that in an average school year, as many as five students will kill themselves and another 300 will attempt suicide on his 39,000 student campus.

While all college administrators seem to agree that pressure is increasing, they differ on how much responsibility the college must bear in trying to alleviate it. "College Can Be Killing" talks about school pressure with students, university deans, counselors, house fellows and psychiatrists and explains the different approaches taken by universities.

One of the important conclusions of the report is that parents must understand how much support their own child needs and recognize that a choice of colleges should involve more than academic reputation and the beauty of a campus.

Courses offered

Two courses in real estate will be offered in Taylor this fall by the statewide Real Estate Program of the University of Michigan.

Real Estate Business 1 begins Sept. 11 and meets Mondays from 6:30-10 p.m. Real Estate Law begins Sept. 12 and meets Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. Both courses run for 11 weeks and will be held at Downriver Federal Savings and Loan, Eureka at 1-75.

Real Estate Business 1 is a residential sales course, designed as a practical introduction to problems arising in day-to-day real estate transactions. Real Estate Law explains the rights and duties of all parties involved in a real estate transaction and will cover the proper preparation of documents.

Advance registration for both courses is advised since enrollment is limited. To register in advance contact the Downriver Board of Realtors, 13424 Eureka Road, Southgate, at 285-4500.

Editorial opinions

Council minority action supported

Last week's rejection by city council, of an amendment to the city's sign ordinance, marks the beginning of a new era in the City of Romulus.

When the Eller Outdoor Sign Company came to council and requested the amendment to the city ordinance, they argued that Romulus was out-of-step with surrounding communities, and that existing restrictions on signs were too severe.

To the credit of the Romulus Council, two councilmen chose to reject the proposed amendment, in effect saying to anyone who cared to listen: This town belongs to the citizens and does not exist solely for the benefit of commercial enterprise.

We support that council position.

We feel that for too long the citizens of Romulus have been the victims of zoning by whim.

Although the majority of the councilmen present were in favor of the amendment, the motion failed to garner the required five votes necessary for passage.

The vote on the amendment came while Councilman Junior Block was absent, and the negative votes on the issue cast by Jimmie Raspberry and Ray Cantrell, killed the plan.

We feel that Eller's claims that the company now has to come to the city each time it wishes to erect one of their standard 672 square foot signs, justifies the council action.

For too long, industry has had its own way in Romulus. Too often they have disregarded the best interest of all the citizens in their quest for higher profits.

The move by council to reject the sign ordinance amendment will ultimately profit all of the citizens.

Raspberry suffers from foot-in-mouth

When is a public meeting not a public meeting?

According to Jimmie Raspberry, Romulus City Councilman, anytime that meeting is on tape.

At last week's city council meeting, the question of Eller Outdoor Sign Company's request for an amendment to the city's sign ordinance was on the agenda. Mr. Sam Evola, Vice President of Public Affairs for the company, was on hand at the meeting to question comments made by a former city official regarding the measure.

At a previous council meeting, when the question of Eller's proposed ordinance amendment was under consideration, former mayor Jimmie Stewart provided, in very concise terms, his opinion of Eller's past performance in the community. Stewart recommended against the adoption of the ordinance amendment which would allow Eller to erect its standard 672 square foot sign without special approval. Current ordinance only allows for 600 square foot signs.

During last week's meeting, Evola raised the subject of Stewart's comments, and suggested that council review tapes of the previous meeting to support his contention that the comments made by Stewart were inappropriate.

It was at this point in the meeting that Councilman Jimmie Raspberry stated that the public had no right to listen to tapes of council meeting.

That is an interesting comment coming from a man who should certainly know better.

Most probably Raspberry reacted in a moment of a heat and really didn't mean what he had said. But if he did, he should consider the following.

In a democracy, leaders govern with the consent of the governed. If the governed have no right to information regarding how they are being governed, it is difficult for them to consent.

In fact, it was the growing trend in this country toward closed legislative sessions which prompted the recently passed 'Open Meeting Act'.

That law alone, should have made it clear even to Raspberry that the public is the boss.

His contention that the public has no right to listen to tapes, which they have paid for — of a meeting, that they have paid for — discussing business that the public has elected the officials to transact — is so distressing as to seem implausible.

For that reason it appears extremely unlikely that Raspberry really meant what he said.

But just in case. Maybe he should attend the next few meetings of The Romulus 'WE the People' group.

We at Associated Newspapers feel that that community group would be more than happy to provide Raspberry with the civic courses he apparently has missed.

Open records legislation

By STATE SENATOR
DAVID A. PLawecki

With the rapid growth in employee record-keeping by modern-day business and industry, the need to provide workers with control over the collection and use of personal information has become vitally important.

Although some companies have voluntarily adopted open-records policies for workers, a widespread means of guaranteeing basic rights of access to personnel files has not yet been established.

A recent study conducted by the American Civil Liberties Union confirms that many employees and employers believe that "workplace privacy is a matter of considerable importance." A total of 92 percent of those who responded felt that they should have the right to see their own records.

Recent action in the Michigan Legislature will soon help set the national precedent for granting employees the legal right to view and amend their personnel records.

Effective January 1, 1979, under a new law which I am proud to have managed in the Senate, Michigan workers will be able to review personnel record information kept on them by private and public employees in the state and insert a written statement of their point of view on items in their files with which they disagree. Another important provision of the landmark Michigan law will prohibit an employer from keeping records of an employee's off-the-job exercise of first amendment rights.

This prohibition should extend to political surveillance of workers and the maintenance of files containing information on employees' political activity. This essential section of the bill is aimed at preventing "blacklisting" of employees.

Under provisions of the law, any information which is used in determining employment, promotions, transfers, additional compensation or disciplinary action will have to be made available to an employee upon request. The cost for duplicating any information in the record must be assumed by the worker but the employer will have an obligation to establish a reasonable time for reviewing the record at a location convenient to the worker's place of employment.

In the event that an employee disagrees with information contained in the record, such as a disciplinary report, he or she will have some recourse. Upon mutual agreement, an item in dispute may be removed or corrected, or the employee may submit a statement to be kept in the record explaining his or her position.

As a further protection of a worker's privacy, an employer must notify his or her employees in writing if any disciplinary report, letter of reprimand, or other disciplinary action is to be divulged to a third party unless:

(1) the employee has signed a statement waiving this right,
(2) disclosure is ordered in a legal action or arbitration,

(3) information is requested by a government agency as a result of a claim or complaint by an employee.

None of this information may be disclosed if it is more than four years old, except when the release is ordered by a legal action or arbitration.

If an employer violates the worker's right-to-know law, an employee will be able to seek a court action ordering the employer to comply with the act. A willful and knowing violation of the act will entitle the employee to $200 plus costs, reasonable attorney's fees and actual damages.

Editor's Log

On Catton's passing

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

The news of Bruce Catton's death hit me particularly hard since I have been a fan of his for many years.

Catton, the Michigan born Pulitzer Prize winning author, died last week at the age of 78. His passing will leave a distinct void in the ranks of sensitive articulate writers.

My introduction to Catton's work came early in my life. I have always had a feeling for history, and as time passed that interest became centered around American history during the Civil War era.

During the period that I was building my library which consists primarily of books dealing with history, I discovered that many authors had chronicled the happenings of the civil war period, few were able to match the living history which Catton presented.

Over the years, I eventually managed to collect most of Catton's works, and today those books occupy a special place in my collection.

Since my collection of books started during my early years, a time in my life when I had considerably more time than money, the struggle to acquire all of the authors I felt inclined to, was a slow process.

It was for that reason that my collection of Catton's works followed a rather random pattern.

The first book of his that I was able to acquire was "Mr. Lincoln's Army." That 1951 Catton was a chronological history of Lincoln's struggles to build an army that would bring the Confederacy back into the Union. I came by that book through a visit to a local bookstore. The owner of the shop had directed me to it, as an example of Catton's work.

Drawn through the pages, not reading, but actually living, the unfolding drama, I concluded that Catton was indeed a unique writer gifted with the rare ability to make his subject come alive.

Much like the usually stoic college professor I had drawn for a history course at the University of Southern California, Catton loved his subject to the exclusion of everything else. That professor, like Catton, generated a real passion for the subject at hand.

It was only natural then, that I would make the effort in the coming years to add all of Catton's work to my library.

"The War Lords of Washington," published 1948; "Glory Road," 1952, "U.S. Grand and the American Military Tradition," 1954; "Banners at Shannandoah," 1955; "This Hallowed Ground," 1956; "The Coming Fury," 1961; "Terrible Swift Sword," 1963; "Two Roads to Sumpter," 1963; "Gettysburg: The Final Fury," and "Michigan: A Bicentennial History," 1976. Catton's Pulitzer Prize was awarded for his anthology, "A Stillness at Appomattox."

At this date, having added all but two of his works to my collection, I am even more impressed with the talent Catton displayed in his chosen work.

Born in 1899, in Petoskey, Catton's abilities carried him quickly to the top of his field. While he spent much of his time out side of Michigan, Catton maintained a summer home near Frankfort.

Many authors have devoted their lifetimes to entertainment, but Catton devoted his life to making history entertaining. Not in the usual sense of the word, but by writing so well on a subject he loved, that others were provided the opportunity of living-and learning- the lessons of the past.

Catton is gone now, but his work will remain to benefit all of us.

It has been said that the study of history is the best way to understand the future.

Rather than just teaching history, Catton let us all live the past, enabling us to also better live the present.

Tisch information campaign started

Editor,

There now exists some certainty that the Tisch Tax Cut petitions will be certified for November's state wide election, and preparation is now being made by Tisch supporters to inform all their neighbors in the state about the proposal.

The information campaign will be an immense undertaking requiring thousands of volunteers from every community to circulate printed information either door-to-door or in business areas of the community.

The Tisch Tax Cut petition has five major points...

- 1) Cut property tax assessments in half, to 25 percent of value.
- 2) Limit assessment increases to 2 1/2 percent a year.
- 3) Cap the State funding of all State ordered programs

5) Optional local income tax of 1 percent for K-12 education.

What is most important about the tax cutting measure centers on two points.

First of all, voters will have their own opportunity to trim state revenues 10 - 15 percent. There are not political promises to be broken here, the petition must be adhered to since it will be a constitutional mandate.

So far we've heard all our political leaders scream that Tisch would destroy the state. Do you really think so with just a 10 percent cut?

We're all quite aware of the waste in our local governments and schools, and even more so with the state bureaucracy in Lansing.

Many signers of the petition came from state workers in Lansing, especially managers from high administrative positions. Their tales of waste from legislative mismanagement, frills, and layering would light the fire of even the most tempered voter.

Secondly, the petition restores political voter power to the election process. No longer will the State be able to raise property tax bills by pacing assessment increases head on with real estatespeculation.

The 2 1/2 percent assessment increase cap is a significant drop from the present state yearly average increase of 9 1/2 percent. So in the end, the Tisch petition allows local governments to collect revenues wither by millages or a local income tax capped at 1 percent, but an election will be necessary in both cases.

The Tisch petition also represents the beginning of the initiative process acting as a political hammer in Michigan politics. And it is very important that Michiganders understand the essence of the movement is "people to people" volunteers.

We're all new at this, maybe the politicians have been hoping we'd stay dumb. Not this time.

For further information write the Tisch Coalition for Property Tax Cut in Michigan, General Delivery, Laingsburg MI 48848.

Thank you for your time and here's to the most interesting November election season ever in our lifetime.

Health Beat

'Her esoteric argot puzzles me . . . .'

Today we plan to digress just a tad from our usual column on health subjects, and talk a little about the American phenomenon known as football.

I suppose the only genuine connection between hospitals and football is ex post facto; i.e., hospitals get the players after the fact to repair dented-in noses, separated shoulders, broken ankles, and knees which rotate almost the full 360 degrees.

The above is not in any way to suggest that I'm an anti-football bore.

Quite the contrary.

I've played the game and indeed, at one time thought I might like to make my living as a coach. Unfortunately, the one year I coached at the high school level and helped turn out a 0 win, 7 lose record convinced me that I'd best look elsewhere for my daily bread.

But this column is really about something which happens in our house starting in September each year and continuing through the last All-Whatever Bowl in mid January.

You see, my wife Donna is an addict. I know that from here on in, our Sunday — and sometimes Saturday — afternoons plus each Monday night will find us huddled in front of the TV.

There will be popcorn diet Dr. Pepper, perhaps some fresh fruit, and occasionally another libation—or two—finds its way into the Holy Room of football viewing.

Now Donna has puzzled me for years with her free use of the esoteric argot of the game.

So today, as a public service to all long-suffering husbands who too are married to football fanatics, I plan to unravel some of the mystery of the game.

We were watching a game last year. I sat there half pouting because I would have much preferred to be downstairs cleaning up the basement. However, in order to please Donna, I had agreed to watch the game with her.

At one point there was an incredible collision of bodies in the offensive team's backfield.

Donna was shouting, "The blitz, it worked. They stuck it to Stabler that time!"

I stifled a yawn and asked her what she meant by a blitz. She looked at me as if I was a side dish she hadn't ordered and explained, "A blitz is a maneuver in which the defensive linemen charge across the line and make like Japanese Kamikaze pilots in a desperate attempt to separate the quarterback from both the football and his senses."

"If that's the case," I said, "then why don't they blitz on every play?"

She gave me a patronizing smile much like one reserved for the mentally incompetent and explained that blitzing is a gamble. Once the linemen leave their defensive positions, that area is open and thus unguarded. If a pass receiver slips into the now-empty area, and the quarterback can get the ball anywhere near the receiver, you have a completed pass and the possibility of a long gainer.

Additionally she said that the quarterback, if he suspects the blitz is coming, can call a draw play and confound the on-charging linemen.

Well, I had to ask. "What's a draw play?" Again I got that look and the following explanation.

"A draw play," said Donna, "is a play in which the quarterback drops back quickly as if he were going to set himself up to pass the football. Now one of the first things an intelligent, and thus still alive, quarterback wants to do is get into the protective pocket formed by two or three offensive players.

"The people forming the pocket are there to fend off any opponent who is roaming around the offensive backfield thirsting to devour the quarterback."

"Just as the quarterback moves into the pocket, he hands the ball to one of the members of the pocket who then takes off like a 747 hoping to roar by the oncoming linemen."

"As the sportscasters are wont to say, calling an occasional draw keeps the defense honest."

The game droned on. I left to get a sandwich. As I was preparing my masterpiece in the kitchen, I heard Donna yell, "Oh, oh, it's a bomb." My sense of duty prevailed and I roared back to the TV room to protect my wife from what I assumed must have been a battalion of Communist infiltrators who were going to destroy our house.

"Where's the bomb," I demanded while my peanut butter and jelly sandwich slipped from my frightened and shaken hands and plopped on the carpet.

"Dummy," she answered, "a bomb is a long pass designed to score an immediate touchdown. A receiver with exceptional speed streaks down the sideline, and the quarterback throws the ball about 60 yards, hopefully just over the shoulder of the receiver who fetches it in and continues to the end zone. That's a bomb."

Next week we'll finish the football lexicon.

Reflections

Cleaning up for cleaning man

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

People who perform home services have always been able to intimidate me.

It has been a constant source of amazement to the man who pays my bills that I used to run around cleaning out cupboards, and closets, scrubbing the bathroom and cleaning out the linen closet the day before the cleaning woman came. I have outgrown this, although I still find myself following her around from room to room apologizing for the crummy mess the whole place is in.

Practically everyone likes to work for me because I feel compelled to run down and get the scrub pails and the rags and I have even been known to rush out and buy a new mop or something when the current cleaning woman has looked down her nose at what I have on hand.

However, it's not only the cleaning woman who intimidates me...it's anyone who is going to do something in my house for me.

Not too long ago I called a carpet cleaner and asked him to come out and give me an estimate on cleaning my carpet.

Now the reason I wanted the carpet cleaned was because it was dirty, but when I saw his truck drive up I ran to the kitchen and got a damp cloth and tried furiously to get a couple of spots out that he would have to see as he came in the front door.

And so there I was, ready to pay this guy money for cleaning my carpet, and I'm down on my hands and knees trying to rub up a spot I was intending to pay him for doing.

When I finally opened the door the palms of my hands got soggy than a wet dish cloth and I scrounged along behind him, mortified at every spot on the dirty carpet that I wanted him to clean.

The time I really got shook up and for days hid in the broom closet whenever anyone knocked on my door, was the time I hired a man to clean my sofa, and he wouldn't even touch it!

The thing that really intimidates me, though, are the questions they ask...like, how can you get a carpet that dirty, or how did that sofa get in a condition like that?

And what makes me so furious with myself is that I let them stand there and lambaste me for asking them to use their time and their material when I'm the one who's paying them to use it.

It isn't until after they've gone that I find my tongue and really let them have it!

My kids have a strange habit of taking off doorknobs. I don't know why and I don't know how they do it, but all of a sudden there appears a gaping hole where a doorknob used to be.

Now I really am fond of my kid's father, but I have to be honest when I say he is not a good doorknob fixer. Long ago, we've gotten used to getting out of the bathroom door with a toothbrush and reconciled ourselves to the fact that anyone caught in a bedroom without a screwdriver has only himself to blame.

Sometimes we've not seen a kid for several days when someone has misplaced the screwdriver or won't let us use his toothbrush.

The other day a painter came to this doorknobless house. Suffering my usual sense of mortification I left him upstairs to do his painting while I went down and clashed pans together so he would think I was a good housewife.

There came a wild thumping from the upper regions, followed by a hushed quietness.

If a vacuum cleaner salesman had come to the door at that moment I would have pressed a screwdriver into his hand and sent him up those stairs, because I knew what had happened and I just wasn't woman enough to face it.

No vacuum cleaner salesman came, and not even a kid showed up, and I found exactly what I thought I would find...a locked in painter, standing there in a sort of petrified glazed daze, staring at the screwdriver in my hand.

"You got something against doorknobs?" he asked.

I suppose there's an answer to that one somewhere. But to this day I haven't been able to come up with it!

Common Cause

Civil service reform and proposition 13

By DAVID COHEN
President, Common Cause

Immediately after Labor Day, the House will face its first key test on whether it has learned any lessons from California's Proposition 13 vote. The outcome of civil service reform will tell us whether Congress is ready to respond to citizens' frustration and anger toward government by insisting on competent performance by our public servants.

The Carter Administration's legislation builds on the concept that citizens will receive effective government service only if it is impartially administered, provides incentives and rewards for outstanding performance, permits managers to manage, and provides employees with protection against political abuse.

Government employees' unions and veterans' groups are working overtime in the halls of Congress to maintain the present inflexible civil service. In candid moments, employees, managers and civil service experts acknowledge that the federal government is a bureaucratic maze which stifles the initiative of dedicated government employees while often failing to protect their rights. The accumulation of laws and regulations serves as a shield for non-performance.

Government is complex enough without permitting it to frustrate good managers by giving them insufficient authority to supervise personnel effectively. Nor should it continue to undermine dedicated servants by failure to reward their outstanding performance. When merit violations take place with impunity and pay and promotions are made on the basis of longevity rather than performance, our system clearly has to be changed.

If the House is concerned about the taxpayers' revolt, it will face up to four key issues in civil service reform:

(1) Establish a Senior Executive Service. The SES would designate up to 9200 supergrade executives without adding to the government's payroll. Entrance into the Service would be voluntary for persons now at high levels. Those who enter the Service would be eligible for bonuses for superior performance and would be removed for poor performance. The opponents of change are trying to block it with a proposal to limit the SES to three departments on a two-year trial basis.

(2) Add protections for whistleblowers. An independent counsel would be authorized to investigate allegations of improper reprisals against those who blow the whistle on wrongdoing within the government. This properly reverses past practice when government employees who revealed the existence of unlawful and improper behavior by their agencies too often became targets of agency reprisals.

(3) Modify veterans' preference. The effect of modifying veterans' preference will be to open greater opportunities to qualified women, minorities, and young people while assisting those veterans most in need of help — the Vietnam era and the disabled veteran.

(4) Oppose changing the Hatch Act. The Hatch Act is an essential protection against partisan political interference with the civil service. In a system based on performance, it becomes extraordinarily important to protect civil servants against such political interference. The most aggressive opponents of civil service reform are at the same time trying to promote changes in the Hatch Act. These are unwise and irresponsible.

The choice for the House is: will it be responsible in remedying many of the problems facing our civil service system and show that it is paying attention to voter dissatisfaction with government performance, or will it continue to cave in to the intense pressures from veterans' groups and government employees' unions who have a stake in a status quo that results in poor government performance?

The Garden Doctor says

This week the Garden Doctor talks about:

Q: Can we eat the freshwater clams from Michigan lakes?
A: Freshwater clams from unpolluted lakes could be eaten, if they weren't so extremely tough. The muscles that hold the shell closed and move the clam through the mud are so tough, no cooking method seems to make them palatable.

Never attempt to eat clams from bodies of water polluted by mercury, sewage, or metals.
Q: Our redbud tree has patches of a white, sticky substance on the twigs. What is that?

A: A small insect called a Treehopper, makes a tiny split in the bark, deposits its eggs, and then covers the site with this sticky substance you described. No control is useful at this time. Check the tree next June and July and if treehoppers are on the leaves at that time, Sevin or Orthene can be applied to the foliage.
Q: The peaches on our backyard tree are so small this year. Does the tree need fertilizer?
A: No, the cause is probably too many peaches. Fruit set was abundant this spring so peaches should have been thinned soon after set occurred. If too many peaches are allowed to develop none of them get very large. Providing ample water during those last few weeks before ripening is another aid to larger fruit.
Q: The leaves on our zinnias are pale and dying each year at this time. Can this be prevented?
A: Yes, but be on the alert for the first sign of it next summer. At first indications start spraying with wettable sulfur, karathane, or actidione PM. Use as often as necessary to keep the disease in check. Plant zinnias in full sun and keep foliage dry during watering to further lessen the damage.

Servey identifies conservation concerns at local level

Results just released from a state and federal environmental survey, suggest new dimensions for future land use, including soil conservation programs for Detroit and the suburbs, as well as rural areas.

The three-month survey, jointly conducted by the State Soil Conservation Services and U.S. Department of Agriculture, involved 20,000 questionnaires sent to Wayne County residents about natural resource concerns such as land use, transportation, water and air quality and political factors affecting these issues.

In the Department of Agriculture and the nationwide network of soil conservation districts the survey is hailed as the first of its kind and is considered an important new development in administration of soil programs nationally.

It was developed under the federal Resource Conservation Act approved in 1977, and represents what is called the first basic change in land-use policy since the 1935 dust bowl era, which generated legislation for the present system of soil conservation districts meant to primarily protect farmlands.

Joseph Luellen, Jr., district conservationist for the Wayne County Soil District, described: "Generally, government programs are designed from the top down. In the past the needs were determined from above, but this survey reverses that situation. This time the concerns are identified at the local level, and we will now ask for development of programs to satisfy those needs."

"We had thought the survey would point out for us a clear pattern that establishes different priorities for separate communities according to their particular make-up, but the results are much more complicated," he added.

Different one-page questionnaires were mailed to urban, suburban and rural areas, asking for ratings of high or low of concern on items such as transportation, air and water quality, waste disposal, recreation, flooding and wild-life habitat.

Categories which drew responses that expressed a high concern of 30 percent or more are considered major areas for development, Luellen said. Those outstanding in the groups and their sub-groups include: lack of recreation facilities, transportation costs, polluted water and air, pollution from organic waste disposal, socio-political matters, and land ownership.

Generally, the same concerns ranked high on all three questionnaires. Flooding and wildlife concerns were items on the rural questionnaire not included on the other two.

"In summarizing the survey," Luellen pointed out, "it seems that environmental concerns do vary among rural, suburban and urban communities, but it is hard to assess, the significance reflected here. We need time for study."

A social conservation district is a unit of state government, as is a school board to township, established under state law. The districts are steered by five-member boards of directors, elected by local land owners with three acres or more.

Finance your home insulation through Detroit Edison.

(Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow.)

A charming snow scene in a glass paperweight. In the old days it was the favorite possession of many a little girl or boy.

But the reality of winter in southeastern Michigan can be harsh—bringing high heating bills.

Before another cold, snowy winter, make sure your home is properly insulated. It's the most important single thing you can do to keep heating bills down. And help save energy.

Detroit Edison's Home Insulation Finance Plan is designed to help. First, by providing a list of participating contractors. Second, with convenient financing.

Under the plan, you can arrange to have insulation installed anywhere it's needed—wherever valuable heat might escape into the cold winter air.

If you're a residential customer with legal title to your home and an acceptable credit rating, you can take advantage of Detroit Edison's Home Insulation Finance Plan. Call or stop in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office for details.

Then when winter comes, sit back and say—"let it snow, let it snow, let it snow."

Save where it really counts. The power is in your hands.

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

WHAT SHOULD I WEAR TO THE FUNERAL?

Black is no longer the only color appropriately worn for a visitation, wake, or funeral.

Today a visitor may wear colorful clothing which expresses good taste. Gloves and hats may be worn, if desired; but are being worn less and less.

The widow or widower will usually wear something basic or conservative in color and style.

All persons attending the visitation or funeral should wear clothing which will contribute to the atmosphere of dignity and respect for the family and other mourners. Some customs and local mores may suggest a small black veil, an armband or something similar.

Your attendance at the funeral or visitation is a simple, but meaningful way to let the family know that you share their loss, that you wish to be considered as one of those who care and will be around to help in the future. It's a one-time opportunity and postponed condolences become awkward for both parties.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to call us.

local solar applications will be included.

Solar Energy II is designed for students with a serious interest in residential applications of solar energy technology. Students will learn how to use solar radiation data, calculate residential heat loads, and size a solar system for specific applications. A basic understanding of solar energy principals is recommended.

Three classes also will be offered at Glenn under the new Foster Parent Training Project, which is being conducted by WC3 Community Services through an expanded service contract with Eastern Michigan University and the Michigan Department of Social Services.

The foster parent training courses are designed to help foster parents achieve greater competency in specific areas of working with children. Foster parents who are licensed by the state may attend classes on a tuition-free basis.

The FPT classes at Glenn will be "Communicating with the Professional," "Issues," and "Fostering the Mentally Retarded Child." These classes will all meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Oct. 5 through Nov. 30.

For further information about this project contact Charlotte Sandridge at 832-4750.

To enable students to register for classes closer to their homes, a new system of on-site registration in each of the WC3 regions will begin this fall. On-site registration in the Western Region will be held at Milton-Middle from 2 to 7 p.m. Sept. 21, 2 to 5 p.m. Sept. 22, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 23.

56's 'Visa' is passport to adventure

From Spain, to Siena to the Solomon Islands, Channel 56 will be providing a passport for viewers to countries all over the world with its new series "Visa."

"Visa," an original series of five electronic portraits of foreign lands and cultures, will air on Channel 56 Monday through Friday, Sept. 11-15, at 7:30 p.m.

The first episode on Sept. 11 is a 30-minute special on a city in Italy that has preserved the look of the Middle Ages. "To Siena With Love" explores the social and political structure of that area that has served to isolate it from the rest of the country.

On Sept. 12 "Visa" takes a dizzying and often hilarious look at picture-postcard Paris. "Paris a la Carte" is a collage of observations of Paris, particularly its love-hate feelings for things American and its celebration of the art of good eating.

"Memories of Our Ancestors: The Solomon Islands" will air on Sept. 13. Utilizing ancestral music and dance as a pivotal point, the broadcast examines the cultural upheaval going on as ideas and influences from the West continue to bombard the island's traditions. On Sept. 14 it's a special one-hour edition of "Visa" on one of Spain's oldest traditions. "Running With the Bulls" explores the ritual of men running in front of bulls in the streets of Pamplona, Spain, during the festival of San Fermin.

The last "Visa" episode on Sept. 15 will be "Media Shuffle-New York-Moscow." Dimitri Devyatkin provides fresh insight into the two world capitals, devoid of ideological or political reportage.

Ribbon Brownies

School days - brownie time

The very first day of school should be celebrated! Kindergartners embark on at least a twelve-year journey of learning, which will set the stage for a lifetime of experience.

Start the journey with an opening day party and chances are school will be associated with a happy event. Ribbon Brownies, made with Baker's German sweet chocolate, Calumet baking powder, cream cheese, flour, eggs, sugar, chopped nuts, and extract, produce a cake-like brownie with a white layer in the center. One batch makes from 16 to 20 brownies and five or six school starters will devour them.

A second batch packaged prettily with a big bow and brought to your first PTA meeting may well insure your election as this year's Class Mother.

Ribbon Brownies

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

1 package (4 oz.) sweet cooking chocolate
2 packages (3 oz. each) cream cheese
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon almond extract
½ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Melt chocolate over very low heat; cool. Cream the cheese. Gradually add sugar; beating until light and fluffy. Blend in eggs, flour mixture, and almond extract. Measure ½ cup batter and set aside. Blend cooled chocolate, nuts, and vanilla into remaining batter. Spread about half the chocolate batter in a greased 8-inch square pan. Spoon the measured cheese batter into the pan, spreading carefully with a spatula to cover chocolate batter. Spread remaining chocolate batter over cheese batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until top springs back when lightly pressed in the center. Cool. Cut into bars or squares. Makes 16 to 20 brownies.

Suburban Living Editor

Now that August has finally been tucked away for another 52 weeks, leaving behind a withered, dusty trail, it also (hopefully) will bring to a halt the somewhat mad ravings of sister-in-law dear, M.A.

On drawing her for a cart partner while golfing "up North" a few weekends ago, I had to put up with her constant exclamations that "August is the BEST month of the year." And, didn't I agree?

Well, no, to be truthful, I definitely favor a couple others. But no matter what I said about June or October, she maintained that AUGUST was the best — not merely HER favorite, but "the" best.

I tried to ignore her as she talked through my putting, sighed during my backswing and hummed through my fairway shots. She didn't quit, though, and since she didn't go away either, I had to listen her summertime soliloquy for the entire 18 holes.

I honestly don't care that the eighth flap on the calendar is her pet time of year, just don't try to talk me into agreeing, okay? My statements about it being too darn hot; too darn dry; too much work (canning season) plus the known fact that it brings summer to a halt made no impression. The poor thing just went on (and on) — almost deliriously — expounding August's virtues.

Well, she's back to teaching again and all I hope is her poor little students aren't getting the same song and dance I got. But, then, it IS September, so —?

Congratulations to Madelyn Blend on her half century of service to the distaff side of this community. And I say "service" cuz that's just what she (and her staff) offered to the many of us who held standing appointments at her "magic kingdom" each week. How they could transform us!

Madelyn and my dear mom knew each other well and when it came time for me to get my first perm, it was only Madelyn she'd trust with my sparse tresses. Madelyn also got me for a "regular" (many years later) and worked her beauty shop wonders on me for a decade before I took up the do-it-yourself routine.

And, having been ensconced at the shampoo bowl many a time when "Maddie" (as many of her peers knew her) came breezing in with a hot casserole or dessert for lunch, I can imagine how MUCH her "girls" are gonna miss her.

Congrats and the very nicest of retirements, Madelyn! You're going to be a hard act to follow.

ANNOYANCES(and not-so-niggly) — The crummy lighting in the fitting rooms at most J.L.H. department stores and in about any section of the store where a person would like to put colors together. I've practically stood on my head trying to find some decent light to match a shirt and tie in men's wear and had a heckuva time coordinating a vest-blouse-slacks outfit for Carol recently. The vest LOOKED rust and we went with THAT color until, alas, in the fitting room it was definitely BROWN and just didn't jibe with the rest of the ensemble. Oh, pain! What mazes are the architect-electrician-designers thinking when they ignore such an important factor as good lighting and what's with the hierarchy who allows such utter stupidity!

DID YOU KNOW: That in Michigan you are never more than six miles from a river, lake or stream? Or — that Michigan was the first state to establish roadside picnic tables?

VERY GOOD MEMORIES of a very nice childhood: The crazy gnarled old tree, slanted at almost a 45-degree angle, that we kids (my four brothers and I) got more enjoyment from than five 10-speed bicycles. We'd get a good start, run up the diagonal trunk, swing into the crook and then just dangle while the others took turns swinging on a stout old rope, heavily knotted at the bottom.

The tree was across the road from our house with a ditch separating it from the gravel road. When we were in particularly devilish moods, we'd wait 'til a car approached and then do our acrobatics — swinging out towards the road and scaring folks half to death.

I imagine if my own kids had done that, they'd have been firmly reprimanded. But our good old regulars down Rawsonville Road never snatched on us and Mom and Dad never found out.

To clarify something — the ditch was wide and the rope swung short so we really never came out across the road. But we sure gave that impression to passersby.

When, if ever, do you suppose restaurants will start offering decaffeinated coffee that's perked the same as regular coffee and not submit one to dumping a little packet into too-often merely warm water? It would be such a welcome treat to get a cup of Brim out of a nicely perking pot, wouldn't it?

One of life's small pleasures: Having a young couple come in the office and watching them, head-to-head and stary-eyed, as they fill out the form for announcing their engagement.

THE BOTTOM LINE: School's open — use your eyes and save the pupils!

Senior citizens to reap benefits through SD Center

Director of Van Buren Township's September Days Senior Citizens Center, Virginia Melcher, is announcing several upcoming activities which will benefit local elderly residents.

Free health screening will be available to area senior citizens from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 7, at the Center located in the Van Buren Township Hall on Tyler Road.

The screening will include a check of both blood pressure and weight, as well as a urinalysis.

LUNCHEON PROGRAM

Senior citizens may eat lunch daily, Monday through Friday, for a 50 cent donation at the Center. A box lunch is provided for pickup at the Center on Wednesdays.

Mrs. Melcher asks senior citizens planning to eat lunch at the Center to phone a week in advance so a sufficient number of meals can be ordered.

Do you need transportation to the Center? Van Buren Township has a van available to pick you up and deliver you to the Center. Just call one day ahead (699-7474) to arrange to be called for at your door.

I.D. DISCOUNT CARDS

The I.D. identifies the senior citizen and entitles the carrier to receive a discount on purchases made or services received from those merchants participating in the Discount Program. Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Department and the Belleville Kiwanis Club are co-sponsors of the Discount Program.

St. Anthony's Church scene of Smither-Eichold ceremony

Two bouquets of blue and white gladiolas, carnations and mums graced the altar of St. Anthony's Catholic Church as Kimberly Ann Eichold and Michael J. Smither exchanged nuptial vows and wedding bands on Saturday, Aug. 19.

The four thirty o'clock ceremony was conducted by The Rev. John D. Kluka before some 150 relatives and close friends. Rita Clark was at the organ to provide music for the occasion.

The afternoon rite united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Eichold of 14250 Lenmoore Dr., Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smither of 14385 Elwell Rd., Belleville.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, Kim appeared in a toe-touching creation of nylon and lace, a pleated nylon panel adding interest to the empire-waisted gown. Other styling details included a lace bodice with a scoop neckline and long, sheer sleeves embellished with lace.

Accessorizing the hoop-skirted dress were a chapel-length veil banded in lace and a bouquet of roses, rosebuds, statice and baby's breath — a mixture of both silk and dried blooms.

Debra Ann Eichold of Belleville was her sister's maid of honor in a pale blue floral print of sheer polyester over nylon taffeta. She was distinguished by her wide-brimmed hat bearing a huge silk rose which was in yellow to contrast with the all-blue ensembles worn by the quintet of bridesmaids: Marsha Owen and the bride's cousin, Carolyn Phillips, both of Belleville; another cousin, Mary Beth Adler of Byron; the bridegroom's sister, Donna Smither of Belleville, and Kimberly Calhoun of Flint.

The bouquets the group carried and all floral works were created by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Geraldine Adler of Leslie.

The bridegroom, at whose Liberty Street apartment in Belleville the young couple now are residing, chose his brother, Lee Smither to serve as best man. Others on the esquire side were Terry McLaughlin of Belleville; Randy Calhoun of Flint; Rick Krezinski and Don Foster, both of Belleville, and Jeff Eichold and Bob and Larry Smither, all brothers of the bridal pair.

The Oddfellows Hall on Savage Road was reserved for the reception which followed. Some 240 guests were welcomed by Mrs. Eichold in a yellow polyester formal gown worn with gold shoes and handbag. The bridegroom's mother was in peach polyester for the occasion. Both were honored with corsages of silk roses, carnations and daisy mums.

The newlyweds spent a week honeymooning at Mackinac Island and Northern Michigan with a few days at the Smither family cottage on Twin Lake in the Irish Hills.

The new Mrs. Smither, a graduate of Belleville High School in 1977, is employed at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors in Ypsilanti. Her husband, a 1976 alumnus of Belleville High School, works for the Ford Motor Company at Rawsonville.

The Thomas Smithers played host at an outdoor buffet style dinner the evening of the wedding rehearsal.

Dad's 90th birthday marked

The 90th birthday of her grandfather, Benedict Dlubisz of Detroit, was celebrated Sunday, Aug. 20, at the home of Eleanor Krasko and her husband, Robert, of Garden City. Hostess at the party was the honoree's daughter, Eleanor Busby of Levering, who baked two special cakes for the big day.

Mr. Dlubisz was born in Poland on Aug. 17, 1888 and came to the United States in 1908, living first in the Ironwood area of Michigan's Upper Peninsula and then moving to Detroit around 1912.

A wounded veteran of World War I, the young returning soldier later married Frances Kukowski in 1918 and from their union came a family of four children, 20 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren. Mrs. Dlubisz died in 1935.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

Blues is an American music form started in the rural south by black musicians. It employs a basic three-line twelve bar form that was present in slave music. But the blues didn't develop as a distinct music type until around the turn of the century. Some of the early great blues singers have been rightfully credited with having a tremendous influence on American pop music. Bessie Smith, Louis Armstrong, and others, have had an impact on country music, rhythm and blues, soul, and rock and roll.

Ailey dance troupe returns to Music Hall

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater will again cast its electrifying spell over Detroit when it returns to Music Hall Center on Sept. 19-24. Known to be an annual sell-out, Ailey tickets already are going fast.

Alvin Ailey's dance company is indeed "... as varied as the country which gave it birth." Rooted in black America, it is a multi-racial dance troupe whose repertoire speaks of history, social change and the beauty of the human spirit. The dancers are equally skilled in modern dance, jazz, ballet and Afro-Caribbean styles and move to the sounds of jazz, symphonic, blues and spiritual rhythms. One critic said "the star of the Alvin Ailey Dance Theater is the company itself — the dancer. They celebrate dance, they celebrate themselves, they celebrate life."

Noted as a fine choreographer,

Getting ready

There will be hundreds of car connoisseurs and collectors at Greenfield Village's Old Car Festival this weekend, but only Chandos Bailey of Farmington Hills and a few others will literally toss their "hats into the ring" during the two days of antique car judging, parades and contests. His 1925 Rickenbacker bears the company insignia of a top hat inside a ring, which was the squadron insignia of Edward V. Rickenbacker, the World War I ace and a founder of the Rickenbacker automobile company. The cars were built between 1922 and 1927 in a Detroit factory. A grand total of six Rickenbackers (two-thirds of the restored and driveable Rickenbackers in the nation) will be here for their national gathering and will compete against some of the 300 other antique automobiles at the event.

Old Car Festival invades Greenfield Village on weekend

The 28th annual Greenfield Village Old Car Festival Saturday and Sunday, will be quite a sight for pampered modern motorists who have never donned dusters or goggles, packed their bags on the running board or sweet-talked their cantankerous machines up a steep grade.

Adventurous automotive enthusiasts, many in costumes, will coax more than 300 cars to this event. Each day will include a parade and frolicsome competitions, including potato and balloon stabbing contests and hand-cranking races. The Wheelmen, the national organization of antique bicycle enthusiasts, will add to the turn-of-the-century atmosphere.

Cars built during the period 1918 through 1925 will be judged on Saturday and those from the period 1889 through 1917 will be judged Sunday. There will be displays of antique automobiles each day.

Special ceremonies will be held Saturday to honor recent donors of antique cars to Henry Ford Museum and Sunday to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Ford Motor Company.

To mark this anniversary as well as the 50th anniversary of the Model A, eight examples of this popular model will be exhibited in the village. There will be two cars for each year of the automobile's production, 1928-31. In addition, there will be an example of the first Ford production model.

Ailey adds to his own masterpieces works from many other choreographers as varied in their approach to dance as Talley Beatty, Rael Lamb, George Faison, Donald McKayle and Lar Lubovitch. In the Ailey troupe's upcoming engagement, each evening offers a different and exciting program.

This season marks the 20th Anniversary of the Alvin Ailey dance company. In these two decades Ailey has created a whole list of major changes in modern dance and has astounded the world with a dance troupe that possesses breadth, diversity and a vitality that no other company can rival.

On opening night of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, a special section of seats has been reserved by the Afro-American Museum in Detroit to be sold at prices ranging from $5 to $20, with proceeds to benefit the museum. These tax-deductible tickets can be ordered by calling Toni Ballard at 225-2736.

Single tickets are available for the Alvin Ailey performances on Tuesday through Thursday at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday matinees. The Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit has tickets available between 12 noon and 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Telephone orders are accepted from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call 963-7680 to order or for further information.

The catcher's mask was invented by F. W. Thayer of Harvard University and first used in baseball in 1876.

Watercolorists show works at EMU display

A special invitational exhibition titled "Collage in Watercolor" will be held at Eastern Michigan University's Sill Gallery now through Sept. 22 and will feature the work of many outstanding Michigan watercolorists.

All of the artists who will exhibit their works incorporate collage (glued-on materials) in their paintings. The collage technique was introduced by cubists almost 70 years ago and has been accepted by many artists. Artists utilizing the collage technique have broadened their range of working materials from the initial use of bits of newspaper, paper cut-outs from books and magazines. The introduction of these scraps of paper produces an element of shock to their paintings, destroying the scanty and exclusive dependency on the painting media.

According to Igor Beginin, an associate professor in the EMU art department who is helping to coordinate the watercolor exhibit, collage has undergone a revival in the 1960s and is considerably enriched. Michigan has been a leader in experimentation with the technique with impressive results, he added. He promises that the EMU exhibition will present a broad spectrum of application of this material and will also give a refreshing view of the media of watercolor.

The exhibit will be on view in EMU's Sill Gallery from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Admission is free.

Dr. Eisele receives Young Alumnus Award

Dr. Paul J. Eisele has been awarded the Young Alumnus Award, a presentation made during an alumni awards luncheon at Eastern Michigan University July 16.

The presentation was part of Alumni Day festivities on the EMU campus and was made by Tim Quinn, a member of the Alumni Association Board of Directors.

The Young Alumnus Award is given to graduates of less than 10 years, based on an honor bestowed upon them or evidence that their college education has functioned in their lives as shown by their activities.

Eisele graduated with a bachelor of science degree in biology and minors in mathematics and chemistry from Eastern in January 1968.

Although a member of the class of 1967, he delayed graduation to obtain the additional minor. He was a teaching assistant in the biology department of Eastern during the 1967-68 school year.

He received a master of science degree from the University of Michigan in 1969. He taught junior high science and mathematics in the Inkster public schools for the 1969-70 school year and then returned to the U of M to work on a doctorate. He was one of 10 national Environmental Protection Agency Research Fellows in the water pollution area.

Upon completion of his doctorate in 1974, he served as senior ecologist for Stone and Webster Engineering Corp. in Boston, where he consulted on the environmental impacts of major construction projects, including power plants, breweries and refineries in the northeast, Louisiana, Florida and Wisconsin.

In 1976, he accepted a position as principal research scientist in the Environmental Engineering Division of Detroit Edison and presently is responsible for technical aspects of water-related environmental activities at all Edison facilities.

While at Eastern, Eisele was a varsity football player, president of Theta Chi fraternity and chief justice of the Student Court.

Resident of Belleville, he is married to the former Kathleen Baginski who received a bachelor's degree in 1968 and a master's degree in 1972, both from Eastern.

Surplus
vials cut expense

The effort to place a life-saving 'Vial of Life' in all 857,000 households in Wayne County has gotten a big boost, following "a great breakthrough" on the cost problem.

The vial of life Task Force had reserved some 450,000 federal surplus vials (small plastic "pill bottles") at a cost of 1-4-10ths cents apiece.

"The lowest price we had previously was about six cents per vial even at manufacturer's cost, so this is a major breakthrough on costs," County Commissioner Ervin A. Steiner Jr., the task force chairman, explained at a Aug. 22 task force meeting.

Vial orders from four municipalities and three other sources were placed following the announcement. An order for 12,313 vials for the city of Southgate was placed by Patricia Kucharek, that city's commissioner on aging. Ten thousand vials were ordered for Highland Park by Richard Rissman, treasurer of Highland Park Rotary, the local Vial of Life sponsoring organization. The City of Wayne ordered 8,000 and Grosse Ile, 2,500.

Under the Vial of Life program, the vial, containing a medical information form for each family member, is placed as designated in the family refrigerator. "Vial" stickers on the refrigerator door and the household's front door alert emergency personnel to the vial's presence in a medical emergency.

The Wayne County Vial of Life

Task Force is making complete kits available to sponsoring groups at a cost of about five cents each. The kits include the vial, medical information forms, stickers, instructions and information on other family safety devices, such as smoke alarms.

The task force has set Oct. 7 as the target date for a massive "Wayne County Walk for Life" in which thousands of volunteers will be distributing the kits to family pick-up points and door-to-door.

The next meeting of the task force is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sept. 12 in the auditorium, 13th floor, City-County Building, Detroit. All interested persons and groups are invited to attend.

Religious schools offer unique look at college life

(Note: "Campus Town Tours" is the 14th in a series of 15 weekly articles on "Offbeat Michigan." These features are designed to encourage Michigan tourism and near-home travel). Campus town tours featuring religiously affiliated schools give Michiganians an interesting look at college life and some unique architectural and cultural attractions. An archeological museum containing more than 7,000 relics, including a large collection from the Middle East, is featured at Andrews University, a Seventh Day Adventists school in Berrien Springs. The university's Pioneer Memorial Church has one of the largest pipe organs in the country.

The 104-year-old facility also has four campus industries where students work off tuition expenses. They include a furniture factory, bindery, dairy farm and print shop. Hancock's Suomi College — the only Finnish college in the United States — has a Finnish archives building. It is affiliated with the Lutheran Church of America.

St. Mary's College (Roman Catholic) in Orchard Lake has a Center for Polish Studies and Culture complete with library, archives, art gallery and museum depicting Polish America. Located 27 miles northwest of Detroit, the college has a facility residence resembling a European castle. The University of Detroit, the largest of Michigan's religiously affiliated colleges with a 9,000-student enrollment, is one of four Roman Catholic schools in Detroit. The others are Sacred Heart Academy and Margrove and Mercy colleges. U of D's 10-story-high clock tower is featured in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" because it is a combination clock, smokestack and World War I memorial.

Sacred Heart's beautiful Gothic chapel was built in 1924 with materials shipped from throughout the world. Marygrove and Mercy colleges are noted liberal arts institutions offering cultural activities for the community.

Albion College (United Methodist) in Albion has one of Michigan's most scenic campuses and its Whitehouse Nature Center features 90 acres of plants, shrubs and trees. Kalamazoo College (Baptist) in Kalamazoo is noted for its Georgian-style architecture.

The Robinson Planetarium and Robinson Observatory are integral parts of the 133-year-old Adrian College campus (United Methodist) in Adrian. The school also has a picturesque walkway with 85 varieties of trees. Nearby Siena Heights College (Roman Catholic) has excellent art and music departments, with student exhibits and shows featured throughout the academic year.

Livonia's Madonna College (Roman Catholic) is noted for its liberal arts programs for the deaf and is one of only four such schools in the nation. Public tours are available daily. Duns Scotus College (Roman Catholic) in Southfield is a Franciscan brotherhood with a 13th Century styled chapel.

Noted religious teachers and historians lecture as part of the Bible training sessions at the Reformed Bible College (Protestant) in Grand Rapids. The programs are open to the public. Nearby Grace Bible College (Protestant) is one of Michigan's smallest and newest colleges and its 15-acre grounds house about 175 students.

Three other religiously affiliated schools are located in Grand Rapids. Calvin College (Christian Reformed) was built on the old J.C. Miller estate and the college's Manor House has been featured in magazine advertisements because of its picturesque setting. Aquinas College (Roman Catholic) and Grand Rapids Baptist College and Seminary (Baptist) have scenic campuses.

The Great Lakes Bible College (Protestant) in Lansing presents a Madrigal dinner, concert and play that is open to the public in late November. The event is staged at the college church, which is decorated as a medieval castle.

Olivet College (Protestant) in Olivet is one of Michigan's oldest colleges and its Burrage Library is registered as a state and national historical landmark. Much of the curriculum at Spring Arbor College (Free Methodist) is devoted to fine arts, and there are weekend amateur and professional programs staged at the school from September through May.

Hope College (Protestant) in Holland also is noted for its fine arts department, with student-produced plays held throughout the year. Western Theological Seminary (Reformed Church of America) also in Holland, began as a theological department of Hope College in 1866. Noted theologians from Michigan and elsewhere conduct seminars at the facility.

OFFBEAT Michigan

Campus town tours featuring religious institutions can take visitors from a small 17-year-old bible college in Grand Rapids to a large 101-year-old university in Detroit. A Gothic chapel built with materials from across the globe, a clock tower listed in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" and structures dating to the early 1800s are some of the attractions. Many of the schools are in picturesque, rural settings.

Agency on Aging sponsors meeting on seniors, family

The Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging, in cooperation with the Institutes of Gerontology at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan, will sponsor a one-day conference on the rewards and challenges facing a family which includes an aging individual.

The conference will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 14 at the McGregor Conference Center on the Wayne State University campus.

The conference is designed to further sensitize those who work with aging parents to the needs and potential of the older person in the family, as well as the institutionalized aged.

Topics covered in the discussions and workshops will be the changing family and community relationships presented by large numbers of older Americans in the population, advocacy for the elderly and housing alternatives and what options the elderly have.

The keynote speaker will be Charles Wolfe, executive director of the Jewish Home for the Aged.

The registration fee is $10, and registration is limited. For further information on the conference, or on registration, contact Dolores Orto at the area agency at 224-0960.

Collegians' parents face adjustments

Parents of college-bound students will face major adjustments in their own lives, says Dr. Imogen C. Bowers, a Michigan State University counseling psychologist.

"The student's absence will leave a big hole in the family," Bowers said, noting that the new college student has played an important role in the family structure for the past 17 years or so. "The youngster may have been the mother's confidante, the only one that could really talk with dad or the person who did so many of the handy chores around the house."

If this is an only child or the last one to leave home, the relationship between parents may change drastically, noted Bowers, an associate professor at MSU's Counseling Center.

"It can be an exciting time of renewal for a couple or a frightening time of realizing that you don't know the person sitting across the kitchen table," she said.

Whatever the outcome of the family rearrangement, the child who left for college will return as an adult. Important developmental changes will occur at this age, the psychologist noted, and one of the most crucial is the separation between parent and child.

"The child must separate from the dependent role he or she has had with the family and separation can be painful for both the child and the parent," Bowers said.

"At home, many of the decisions made about curfew, class selection and even friend selection were foregone conclusions based on the family's values and social standing."

Young adults will be making decisions about values and priorities concerning everything from their sexual behavior to vocational direction. They may temporarily discard family standards, perhaps returning to them 10 to 15 years later as part of their own value structure.

Bowers advised parents to keep the lines of communication open with the college student, even when they may disapprove of some behaviors.

"It's important for parents to let the child know that they are there for emotional support," she said. "Young adults still need to have that assurance."

Once an open line of communication is established, Bowers added, parents can expect many more phone calls from sons and daughters who "just want to chat."

Prep grid coaches, teams ready for 'big show'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Twenty-eight seniors who led Plymouth Salem to an undefeated Suburban 8 Conference football season and the Class A state playoffs are gone.

And Coach Tom Moshimer, who has a fondness to make rivals shudder over his awesome grid teams, insists that this year's team 'is green as grass.'

But, obviously, it has skipped Moshimer's mind that even the grass isn't green this year - because of the drought.

"With all of those people gone, players like Bob Dasher, Doug Agnew, John Broderick, Doug Rowe, Curt Lewis and many others who have graduated," said Moshimer, "I can't see how the other coaches can pick us to be contenders."

One of the reasons coaches are watching Salem is because of Rich Hewlett, who, as a junior, was The Associated Press' all-state quarterback and made just about everyone's all-teams.

Hewlett, who was injured in the last conference game of the season at Dearborn and wasn't around to guide the Rocks during the playoffs, can do just about anything and coaches single him out as the player to stop if Salem is to be stopped this season.

Salem, Stevenson for openers

First 2 games crucial ones for Franklin's grid machine

There is nothing mediocre about football at Franklin High School. In fact, tradition just about forces the Patriots to produce winners.

And, you can expect Coach Armand Vigna to have another one of those traditionally strong teams. However, Vigna's squad has a lot of mending to do because graduation has diluted its ranks and newcomers must prove themselves.

The Livonia-based high school won the Class A state championship in 1975, (the first year the playoffs were actually staged statewide), and has a handful of Northwest Suburban Conference football titles to its credit, but this year Coach Vigna says "that we will be playing in North Farmington's shadows because, right now, I see our team as just an average one."

One may eye the coach's last statement suspiciously, however, when you lose such players as Mike Fry, Tom Hollandsworth, Dave Bowen, Ron Reeter, Gordon Wheeler, Mike Broome, Larry Acton to graduation as did the Patriots, it's understandable why Vigna has some concern about his team.

But Vigna does have 17 returning lettermen back to help defend their share of the title and such outstanding talent as Don Boka and running back Jerry Cifor should make the Patriots competitive.

Franklin watcher can rest assure that the Patriots won't have a mediocre year and it could even be a championship year if the Livonians can come out of their first two games healthy.

The Pats will face Plymouth Salem Friday night at Salem and the following week clash with crosstown rival, Stevenson. Salem, with veteran quarterback Rich Hewlett at the helm, is considered the No. 1 team in the area, and Stevenson has always posed a threat to Franklin's grid image.

Salem ruined Franklin's opener a year ago with a last-play touchdown pass that lifted Coach Tom Moshimer's Rocks to a 6-3 victory. Vigna doesn't forget easily and he obviously hasn't forgotten that loss as he related in detail the final seconds of the game.

"That sort of took the sails out of us, but we rebounded and managed to go on and become co-champs in our league. Friday night's game will tell us in part what we can expect from some of our players."

Franklin's first two games obviously bear watching and it will also be interesting to see how Vigna and his crew are going to beef up their benign offense, a perennial headache which is so foreign to the rest of the Patriots' game.

It will be up to Boka, who did just about everything a year ago, to supply the adrenalin for the offense. He is presently quarterbacking the squad, but he is being pressed hard for the starting assignment by John Wilson who "has been a pleasant surprise," according to Vigna.

Also, John McCarthy has his eyes on the QB job, but a shoulder injury has forced him to the sidelines for the moment.

Vigna has a seasoned running back in Jerry Cifor whose three TDs and over 200 yards rushing against John Glenn forced the Westlanders to hand over half of the conference title a year ago.

The swift-moving Cifor should be even more effective this season.

But Vigna will have to search long and hard to find replacements for the other backfield position. He's looking at senior Ray Singert and junior Herb McMannaway as tailback candidates. Their respective credentials do not include experience.

The offensive problem is compounded by the lack of experience in the line as well. There are no familiar names and the cohesiveness will have to be obtained through the labors of newcomers - guards Tom Zelenka, John Chudy and Jack Williams.

Top Class A softball team in Westland

Perennial Class A men's softball powerhouse, Studio Lounge, proved it was in a class by itself as Salim Hallim's softballers brought the curtains down on another successful campaign by winning the Westland Parks and Recreation's league championship. Studio made it a 'double title affair' as its representatives in the women's league also captured the crown with an untainted record.

It's up to voters

'78 Chiefs could be the best

With one of the finest quarterbacks in the state to guide them and a handful of returning lettermen back from a squad that posted a 5-4 record, everything at New Boston Huron should be rosy.

"It ain't."

Athletics could get the axe this week if the voters refuse to renew a 10-mill levy and an additional 2 1/2 mills to help bail the school district out of economic chaos.

"I really don't know what will happen if the voters choose to turn down the levy," said Tom LaBeau, Huron's head coach. "There is only one thing to do and that is to practice and get ready for the season as if there wasn't this thing hanging over us."

LaBeau and his Chiefs have plenty of company - Dearborn has asked its voters to approve mills for school operation and if the voters snub the request Fordson, Edsel Ford as well as Dearborn High will find themselves without athletic programs.

Right know Huron is getting ready for its Friday night nonleague opener with Milan and at the helm of the Chiefs' offensive machine is Randy Pichan, a 6-3 1/2, 185-pound senior who just may be the finest QB in Huron history.

Pichan has been looked at by a score of blue chip colleges and universities and the consensus is that he is definitely Big 10 material.

The 1978 backfield model is as same as the previous one, lending to the speculation that the Chiefs will go places this year, (if the voters give them the 'green light').

Kelly Summerfield, a running back, Greg Smith at halfback and Fred Block, at fullback should convince rivals that the Chiefs are mean and mean business. Though Summerfield and Smith incurred injuries, LaBeau still has senior Randy Richardson to rely upon.

LaBeau is looking at Bruce Wood as a tight end and Jerry Pichan, Randy's cousin also wants that job. Ed Umin, a senior who is 5-9, 180, sophomore Dave Peakle, (5-10, 200) are putting in their time as guards and center Bill Manny should do the job at that position, Mitch McHugh, a 6-3, 248 pound senior, hasn't reported to practice because of a hip injury and he should give the Chiefs added strength in the trenches.

"Potentially we have a fine team," said LaBeau, "but, again I just don't know what we'll do if the millage failed."

Spartan line in trouble

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Did the telephone operator know something that Cherry Hill head football coach Jerry Pawloski overlooked when she replied: "I'm sorry, sir, they seem to have some trouble with their line."

Pawloski, who may be fielding his best team since taking over the Spartans some five years ago, may not have known it but his telephone was out of order Monday night and that is not only an inconvenience to his household, but to sports reporters trying to get information about his team's 1978 prospects.

I hope he has his line fixed - both at home and on the gridiron.

Kam finally calls it quits as AD

Surprised to learn last week that Kam White who has labored as Inkster High's athletic director for over a quarter of a century has decided to go back to the classroom and teach.

White resigned the AD's position because "it was becoming to be an albatross around my neck."

The 56-year-old former track and basketball star said, "You have to worry about scheduling and cancellations and getting equipment and, after 25 years I figured it was time for someone else to do the job."

White was an active coach until recent years. In fact, his 1954 track team captured the Class B state championship, a feat that wasn't to be duplicated at the high school for nearly two decades when the Vikings won in 1975.

Some eight generations of students have come and gone since Kam accepted his first teaching assignment at the high school and he feels that the "kids of today are just as good as the ones of yesterday."

"We obviously have better athletes because new records are always being set," White pointed out, "and, though we have disciplinary problems, when didn't schools have them?"

"I know when I was back in high school in St. Louis there still were problems," Kam continued, "I think what it is is that there are more of us today and the news media is better equipped to give us the second coverage."

"Self-discipline, I think, that's the key. I think we had more of it back then and our parents were right there, guiding us."

White will stay on at the high school as a physical education teacher and has the opportunity to retire in a couple of years - "but, I like teaching and the kids, so I'm not even thinking about retirement," White admitted.

Dozier sets retirement date

If White has decided to postpone his retirement, a former coach of his, Booker Dozier, isn't. Booker, who is employed and has worked in the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department for the past 26 years, has decided to retire.

And a retirement party will be staged for Booker on Saturday, Sept. 30 at 7 p.m. at the New Recreation Complex on Middlebelt, north of Michigan Ave.

Dozier, whose life has been devoted "to get kids involved in constructive things through athletics and recreation," will be active in the community after retirement," he says.

"I'm not going to hang 'em up and sit back," Dozier said, "I'm going to keep very active in as many programs that I physically can."

If you would like to attend Dozier's retirement party, please call the Inkster Recreation offices at 728-7530 for ticket information. Tickets cost $10 per person.

Of stars and athletes

Though we are not in the rumor business - there is one out of Belleville that is really disturbing. It seems that Kelvin Patterson, the outstanding young athlete who made both the Associated Newspapers' All-Area basketball and football teams last year, has defected to neighboring Ypsilanti High.

As a sophomore at Belleville-High, Kelvin showed signs of developing into one of the best all-around athletes in that school's long history.

Although there is no substantial evidence to back it up, the rumor has it that Patterson was asked to take part in a summer weightlifting program to get ready for the football season.

Patterson didn't show up for any of the sessions, according to the coaches, and didn't offer any rational reason.

'Mission impossible'

Vikings will need a miracle to break .500

You don't have to tell Inkster High's Arnie James that the poor grid poorer, the richer richer.

The Viking football coach knows that fact only to well as he looked over his recruits the first week of high school practice.

"We have only two regulars off of last year's team," moaned James whose team lost all eight of their encounters a year ago. "And we going to need something like a miracle to lift us up."

James is a realist - he knows that the big Class A team in the league, Highland Park, is after the Suburban Athletic Conference title which Robichaud snatched away from the SAC power.

And both Ecorse and River Rouge look improved on paper, leaving the dissolute Vikings in the cellar again.

James chastised several players "who played a year ago but didn't come back. Some of them are very physically soft. They are used to an easy type of living and have no self-discipline to speak of and can't shoulder responsibility."

And that reflects their general attitude of life," James added. James has until Saturday to find dire replacements for his lineup. Inkster opens an 8-game schedule at 2 p.m. at St. Martin DePorres.

The two returnees - linebacker Krafus Walker who doubles as a split end on offense, and Marcus Woods, a defensive tackle and offensive guard, carry much of the Vikings' hope into battle.

There are others who are whipping themselves into shape and they are: Reginal Williams, an offensive guard who also will play tackle on defense; Keith Huguley, a cornerback and flanker on offense; Derrick Stevenson, a running back.

Stacey Bostic, a junior, and senior Paul Harris, are being groomed to quarterback the team. Harris will probably get the call to start in Saturday's opener, but Bostic should see plenty of action. James hopes to get some reinforcements "and has a couple of thoroughbreds in mind."

But if the veteran coach doesn't find them, the rest of the SAC will gallop all over the undermanned Viking crew.

James' mission to break even this season could almost be labeled an impossible mission.

Burghuff retains city softball title

After a hard-fought 7-2 victory in the first game, Burghuff Bar struck early and destroyed Annapolis Auxiliary 13-5 in the nightcap to claim the city softball championship in Wayne.

It was the second straight year that Burghuff stashed away the first place city title.

But this year the champs were forced to sweat it out.

After taking a 3-0 lead in the third inning of the second game of a double elimination tournament, Burghuff saw a 4-0 lead dwindle to 4-3 when the auxiliary erupted for three runs off of winning pitcher Bob Jaskolski who scattered five hits for the victory.

The two teams then exchanged two runs in the fifth inning, but a 5-run outburst by Burghuff in the seventh turned the tide one way and drowned Annapolis.

Tim Stone led the champs' assault on loser Johnny Sims who gave up 18 hits including a homer to Stone. Stone went on to hit for the cycle and drove in three big runs. Teammate Corky Hays laced three singles and accounted for three RBIs while Gary Pierce had a pair of singles and a double.

Mike Redick picked up two of the five Annapolis hits as he drilled a roundtripper and doubled. Redick also provided the losers with three RBIs on two singles in the first game.

Bob Billing, charged with the loss, was staked to a 2-0 first inning lead before the champs came back and scored once in the second, then took over for good with a four-run burst in the fourth. They got two insurance runs in the fifth to seal the 7-2 victory.

Billing had his problems with Doug Reid who blasted a homer and doubled. Three others - Hays, Dave Seamen and Mike Plagens all checked in with two hits.

Jaskolski, who also received credit for the victory, allowed five hits while he walked two.

In other season finales, Eloise Inn wrapped up the city's "Over 30" Softball Championship with a 10-6 victory over Jack's Sporting Center. Teledyne defeated Ernie's 20-3 in the first round action, while Jack's buried Tasee Freez 15-7.

In the matchup for the championship, Eloise drew first blood as the champs tilted the scoreboard for three runs in the first inning, then hung on as Jack's came alive in the stretch.

Bill Whitworth and Les Warden split four singles for the losers and pitcher Dick Brewis delivered 15 hits to the champs who got circuit clouts from Harold Fielder and Skip Thorton. Fielder, Thorton, Joe Kadlec and John Graff each had two hits.

Jack's exploded for six runs in the first inning and went on to bomb Teledyne 19-6. The winners received four hits from Estes Dobozy who hammered out a couple of homers and two singles in driving in three runs. Mate Vic Kraus also got to loser Bob Traynsky for three hits - all singles.

Brewis, the winning pitcher, gave up a total of 15 hits, including three singles to Dick Dargo and a pair of singles to Jerry Pasino.

A 10-run last of the fourth inning helped Eloise get past a stubborn Chum's and Jake's 20-17. The losers managed to carve out 22 hits off of winner Lenny Chalmers who had his problems with veteran slugger Chappie Reynolds who blasted a single, double and triple. Ron Jones pulled in with three hits and Jerry Popin had two.

Kadlec led the assault on Reynolds, who was charged with the loss. He socked four hits, while Bill Piers and John Rothermel each had three, the later getting a pair of doubles.

Eloise won a 23-14 slugfest from Extra Point Bar as both teams struck early. Eloise put six runs on the board in the first inning and the losers went one better, but surrendered the 7-6 lead when the champs scored nine times in the second. Eloise managed to increase a 15-11 stranglehold with four runs in the fourth. Ray Shimansky had four hits for the losers and five RBIs, and winning pitcher Elmer Daniels also gave up three hits to Ron Wojewski, Ron Mondon and John Colligan.

Sims picked up four hits, John Rothermel had three and Daniels aided his cause with four RBIs thanks to a triple and single.

Van Buren's playoff softball champs

Rogalle's may have gotten away with the Van Buren Township men's softball league's regular season championship, but a determined Little Caesar's crew made sure that the champs didn't get their second coveted title. Caesar's knocked off the champ in the playoff to earn the playoff crown. Members of the winning team included: Darol Loyer (kneeling, from left), Paul Lauth,

Caesar's wins playoff crown

With two stunning victories in the double elimination tournament, Little Caesar's foiled reigning champ, Rogalle's plans to annex the Van Buren Township's Class X men's playoff championship to its list of feats this season.

Rogalle's, which won the regular season championship, found Caesar's ready during the playoffs. Caesar's won the opening game of the playoff 10-4, then came back and won the title with a onesided 15-6 triumph.

It was the second and third time the regular season champ had been beaten all year.

Though Rogalle's got to winning pitcher Ted Wingrove for 17 hits in the first game, Wingrove's teammates had staked him to a 11-2 lead after three innings and he was never in any trouble after that inning.

Willie Boone laced four hits off of loser Glen Davis who gave up homers to Jerry Jarvela, Ray Syzndlar and Gary Gentle who each had three hits.

Bob Johnson paced Rogalle's assault with four hits, including a roundtripper. Gerald Memering also homered for the losers while Rick Sheldon collected three hits.

In the decisive second game, Caesar's jumped on loser Davis for three runs in the first and second inning and went on to beat their rivals for the title.

Gentle drilled a homer and mates Jarvela, Rich Boone, and Paul Lauth each checked in with three hits. Two of Jarvela's hits were doubles.

Tim Vance laced a homer and two singles, Bob Johnson had a single and homer while Rich Ivan had a triple off of Wingrove.

Canton gals are waging dogfight for golf title

With at least six golfers in reach of the top of the league standings, the Canton Parks and Recreation's women's golf tournament appears to be heading for a "photo finish."

At present, three of the six contenders are tied for first place. The trio - Mary Kay Frey, Bev Green and Pauline Pryor - each has 30 points.

However, Ginnie Johnson, Tiit Himmelfberger and Silvia Dickinson lack one point to join the pacesetters and Estelle Heidt is only two points away from the crowd.

In their latest outings, Ms. Pryor swept five points while Frey and Green claimed four points apiece to stay atop the standings. Johnson, Himmelfberger and Dickinson also pulled out four points to remain close at hand.

With only a week remaining in the season, the championship could easily be decided by playoffs.

Frey turned in her best round of the year as she posted a 51, two strokes better than Green's best. Estelle Heidt and Betty Lowing both carded their top scores of the year last week.

Here are the scores of the rest of the players: Betty Williams (25), Helen McGee (24), Denise Champman (24), Betty Lowing (22), Betty McDougall (21), Lou Skotzke (19), Irene Karnish (18), Deirdre Vesnaugh (17), Flossie Tonda (13), Marge Trapp (11), Kay Nichols (11), Mary Jane Faussett (10), Marge Mogelnicki (6) and Kathy Freeze (5).

Meanwhile, over in the men's league, Tony Valenti and Don Johnson picked up three points from Bruce Watt and Bill Lindley to take command of first place thanks to a 26 point total. Two other teams - Paul Oberhelman and Mike Mattingly, along with John Mogelnicki and Sam Natoli are deadlocked in second with 24 points.

Mogelnicki and Natoli lost ground last week as they handed over five points to Mike Ryan and Bob White.

Ryan shot his best round, carding a 38 for nine at Fellow's Creek, while Bob supported him with a respectable 39.

Oberhelman and Mattingly managed to slip into the second place tie when they snatched 3½ points from Frank McGee and Hank Johnson.

Here are the standings after seven weeks: Valenti and Johnson (26), Oberhelman and Mattingly (24), Natoli and Mogelnicki (24), Eminger and Sheets (22½), McGee and Johnson (22), Argonis and Lapierre (22), Lawrence and Lodson (21), Horrey and Gabriel (20½) and Ryan and White (19½).

Other scores include: Ponte and Ponte (18), Watt and Lindley (18), Koers and Koers (15½), Lyndrup and Lally (13½), Glover and Shirk (13), Rehberg and Riggs (11½), Stubben and Seewald (10½), Brock and Taylor (10), Hoffman and Yuchas (9½) and Pietryka and Slade (9).

Tigers seek swim club members

The Belleville Tiger Swim Club, which is an AAU age group competitive swimming group, is seeking new members.

Registration for new members will be conducted on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 14 and 15 at the Belleville High School Pool between the hours of 6 to 8 p.m.

"Though we are not a learn-to-swim club," said instructor David Atwell, "we do teach young swimmers the skills and strokes necessary to compete in the sport."

Additional information about the club may be obtained at the time of registration or by telephoning Atwell at 697-2286.

First '2' are toughies for Patriots

Jack Rose, a 6-1, 200-pound senior, Bob Plue, a 6-3, 220-pounder, and Jim Turan, 6-1, 200-pounds are Franklin's candidates for the offensive tackle slots while the end positions are up for grabs and Carl McCuan, Tim Pryzicki, Steve Wright and Bill Flannigan are battling for the jobs.

Andre Mandeauxm a 6-2m 180-pound senior is handling the centering and the Patriots should have no problems in that position.

Franklin's traditionally strong defense, a legacy that will definitely be put to its severest test this season, will include the Martin brothers - Tom and Chris - at the ends. Other candidates who are eyeing the interior line and linebackers' posts include: Paul Parchowski, Dave Kroll, Paul Berry, Tim Sullivan, Tony Manozo, Steve Draz along with Boka who will probably fit into the middle linebacker's gear.

Vigna sees North Farmington in a "class by itself in the league this year."

"Definitely the team to beat," Vigna said about the veteran-packed North squad. "In fact, it wouldn't surprise me if they went all the way in Class A. They have one of the fastest teams I have seen in my 21 years as coach and I feel they are as good as the Flint Northern team of the late 40's that produced such outstanding collegiate players."

If something, as in the form of injuries should plague North so that it didn't live up to Vigna's expectations, then the Franklin coach sees Westland and John Glenn and Franklin again in a dogfight for the championship.

"But at this time I just can't see anyone stopping North's machine," Vigna said.

But, Armand, what we see isn't what's necessarily so.

Wasn't Green Bay supposed to be a 10-point underdog to the Lions?

J & D Auto to host tourney

Some of the top women's softball teams in the city and area will invade Wayne Ford Civic Center field over the weekend to compete in the inaugural J & D Auto Parts Slo-Pitch Invitational Tournament.

The tournament will get underway on Saturday and culminate with the crowning of the champ. The championship will be decided around 4 p.m. on Sunday.

J & D plans to enter three teams in the field of 18 squad that are seeking the title. Wayne Westland and Sterling Heights' J & D teams will participate.

Also entered are Dairy Queen of Roseville, Brooks Roadrunners of Allen Park, Trading Post of Plymouth, the Rebels of Ann Arbor, Tasee Freez of Wayne, Token Lounge of Westland.

Prep grid teams set for debuts

But, as Moshimer points out, the backfield and offensive line are in a "reconstruction period" and "our entire defense has been wiped out by graduation."

Moshimer does have Paul Dillon, who did the quarterbacking when Hewlett was injured, along with fullback-linebacker Chris Kappeler, and linebacker David Wilcox to rely on, "but the rest of the line-up is untested and we'll find out Friday night about our shortcomings."

Friday night is when the Rocks launch the 1978 campaign, hosting perennial power, Livonia Franklin.

"Franklin also has lost a considerable amount of players to graduation," noted Moshimer, "and this matchup should be very interesting."

Salem beat Franklin with a last second pass play to open up last year's record-setting campaign. They went on to win nine straight before losing in the playoffs to Portage Central.

It definitely will be another barn-burner - and someone better alert the Franklin coach Armand Vigna to bring along the fire department or the bomb squad to diffuse Hewlett's bombs.

Wayne grid boosters meet Saturday

If you're a member of the Wayne Memorial Football Booster's Club or a Zebra football fan, the AMVETS' Hall is the place to be Saturday night.

The boosters will be gathering at 7:30 p.m. at the hall, located at 1217 Merriman Rd. in Westland to dine and dance.

"We're hoping for a good turnout," said Ron Hames who is publicity chairman of the club. "We would enjoy have all of our friends and members attend."

Tickets are $8 and can be purchased at the door or by telephoning 729-7977.

Wayne kicks off the 1978 football season Friday night, hosting Belleville High at 8 p.m.

Bulldogs good enough to repeat

If you're looking for title contender, look to Robichaud

Can Robichaud do it again? With big and bad Highland Park, the perennial titular challenger, ready to cut Coach Bob Yauck's Bulldogs down to size, Robichaud fans feel winning the Suburban Athletic Conference championship a year ago can be contagious. "We have to replace two key players," said Yauck who is entering his ninth year as head coach at the Dearborn Heights-based high school and his 16th year in coaching. "If we can find the right people, we'll be all right." Yauck may be asking for a lot; first, he has to find a quarterback to fill the shoes of Calvin Carter, who engineered the Bulldogs' 8-2 over-all record, (best in the school's history) and also led his team to the playoffs, also a first for the team.

Then, of course, he needs to find a replacement for his son, Bob, who was awarded All-State recognition for a sterling senior season. Bob Jr., a defensive tackle, is presently at Northern Michigan University on a full-ride scholarship.

Carter will attend Central State in Ohio on a scholarship.

Despite Carter and Yauck's noticable absence, Robichaud will unquestionably be branded as the pre-season favorite off of the 12 returning lettermen who saw a lot of action. Unless the Bulldog luck turns atrocious (injuries and proverbial bad bounces), Robichaud has to be considered a legitimate title contender.

Quality players such as all-leaguer Darryl Goree, a 6-1, 180-pound senior tight end, John Lucas, two-year starter at center who teamed with Yauck at the defensive tackle slot - he's 6-1, 217, and Ralph Payne, a 5-9, 205-pound guard, are just three reasons why it will be difficult to take the title away from the Bulldogs.

Yauck also has returning from last year's squad defensive cornerback Ronald Williams, a speedy 5-8, 155-pound senior, who is considered the hardest hitting player on the team; Mark Woodson, who, clocked at 9.8 for the 100-yard dash, will be tough to catch. Woodson is in the backfield as a running back; fullback Warren Dorsey, a rugged 6-1, 183-pound senior who started last year as a sophomore, and Brian Ceckiewicz, a versatile athlete who is back at guard.

Other Robichaud notables are Glen Carreathers, a split end, Lester Moody, a 5-8, 165 running back and Calvin Townsend, who, at 6-2, 255-pounds is the biggest Robichaud player on this year's squad. But rivals need not worry about Townsend as yet - he's nursing an ankle injury and will miss the first two games.

Yauck also has a few other candidates who should help keep the title in Dearborn Heights. They are juniors Eric Barnes (5-10, 245) who is battling William Price (6-0, 255) for one of the offensive tackle spots; transfer student Clarence Massey, a 5-11, 197 senior, offensive guard Rick Morais, who is 6-0, 170-pounds and Walt Dotson, who didn't play a year ago, but is eyeing the running back slot.

Yauck has singled out Sidney Brisbane, a sophomore, and Clyde Elba, a transfer from Aquinas, to work out at the quarterback position. Brisbane, 6-1, 145 pounds has good speed and a fairly good throwing arm, but he lacks experience under game conditions.

Blue-ribbon Glenn cheering team

When Westland John Glenn's football team hits the field it'll be backed by a blue-ribbon varsity cheering team which won honors at the recently-staged National Cheerleader Association clinic at Wittenburg University in Ohio. The Rockets earned two blue ribbons and one red for their performances and also received a spirit stick.

Members of the this year's squad are: Beth Lowrey, Holly Cooper, Sandy Vasser, Jackie Clark, Sandy Taylor, Jeannie Vasser, Carole Bumstead, Jodi Attwood, and Kim Jackson. Glenn fans will get their first look at their football teams and cheerleaders Friday night when the Rockets launch their season at Garden City West.

Sports Meridian

I liked what Tom Fielder, the assistant football coach has to say about the controversial subject:

"Patterson is an excellent athlete," Fielder offered, "but, in sports, especially in football, it is the team that counts and not the individual. I don't care how many good individual athletes you have out there on the field, if they aren't thinking as a team, you're in trouble."

Did you hear that Monte Clark?

90 ride in Foster Memorial

Some 90 riders took part in the Steve Foster Memorial Races held over the Labor Day Weekend at the E-Z Rider Raceway in Milan, Michigan.

The race, in memorial of Foster who was recently killed in a motorcycle race mishap, will become an annual event, according to Jim White, a spokesman for the track.

Mrs. Rachel Foster, Steve's mother, was on hand at the track to award the winning driver, and the top five finishers with memorial plaques. Niles Henschett of Marshall, Michigan was the first cyclist to cross the finish line.

"This year the memorial race was a semi-pro event," said White, "however, it will become an all-pro race next year. Let me add that there were more fans and racers at the track for the Memorial Race than I have ever seen out there."

Foster, a Wayne Memorial student, was killed in a professional cycling race on Aug. 11 near Chicago. He had been a part of the motorcycle racing scene for approximately four years.

The trophies are here

Oh, yes, those long awaited trophies for the additional second Garden City and third Inkster flights are here. Because there were more golfers entered in the Associated Newspapers-Parks and Recreations' City Championship Golf Tournament than anticipated, we needed to increase the flights and additional trophies had to be ordered.

Those who finished in the top three places of those flights may pick up their trophies at the ANP offices during the week, Monday through Friday, or on Sunday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Contact Sports Editor Tom Mooradian (729-4000) for further information.

Final call for Over 30 hockey

Sunday is the deadline to register for skaters who plan to compete in the Wayne-Westland men's Over 30 Hockey League.

Registration will be accepted between 3 to 6 p.m. at the Wayne Arena and players should have proof of residency and age when they sign up.

Players will also be required to skate on Sunday, Sept. 17 for the purpose of rating each individual. Any player who didn't skate in the league a year ago must register.

Residents will be accepted first in filling league openings and remaining players will be put on a waiting list. For further information please contact Dennis Broze (728-0708) or Ron Hays (729-1933).

Want a sleeper -- try Churchill grid team!

Ken Kaestner is entering his 21st year in coaching and, though most are looking at Northville and Waterford Mott as heir-apparents to Farmington Harrison's Western Six Conference football crown, don't overlook Livonia Churchill in the stretch run.

Kaestner has 11 seniors returning off of Churchill's 1977 team that posted a 4-5 over-all and a 3-2 conference record.

"I'm not one to count chickens before they hatch," said Kaestner, "but I think I have a super bunch of kids. They have a lot of spirit and determination and, believe me, after all these years in coach, those two untangible elements help win titles."

The axiom about counting chickens isn't precarious in any busy, but when Kaesnter counts out nine returning players on offense and four on defense, it's understandable why he's "optimistic."

With quarterback Rick Coppola, who is a remarkable passer, returning, along with tri-captains Doran Mason, Paul Neville and Mark Przydolski revving up for action and Austin Ryan, Glen Cahoon, Bill Olive and Don Swarz who were in the midst of last year's trench warfare, Churchill just may resume its rightful place among the contenders.

Added to the list of notables azre fullback Jeff McCarthy and Steve Zabowski who, though they didn't start a year ago, have proven their worth to the Charger cause.

The defense is where Kaestner and his coaching staff will have to work overtime. The shortcomings, caused by mass graduation, may be overcome if veterans Dabe Krick, Ken Katschor, Larry LaLocter and Jon Burek come through.

"We're hoping that our offense can move the ball well enough until our defense matures," Kaestner said, "and if our defense should crystallize, then we'll be a team to contend with."

Kaestner and his Chiefs will open the '78 campaign Friday night at home to a strong East Lansing team that has amassed a phemonal 26-3 over-all record over the past three years.

"East Lansing is ranked among the top teams in the state this year," revealed Kaestner, "and it will be interesting to see what our kids can do against them."

Kaestner went on to say, "that he isn't expecting the team to perform miracles."

"But, if we should lose to East Lansing say by 54-0, I would be disappointed but not down on these kids. I think we have a super bunch of kids and time will tell us whether we have a super team - the key, I believe, is to remain healthy."

All you wanted to know about archery

One of the top and least publicized sports in the state, archery received a big boost in the area thanks to Springer Archery Supplies which has opened its doors at 12731 Huron River Drive, just west of the Metropolitan Airport in Romulus. These fair maidens, who obviously are not in distress and can handle a bow effectively, are on hand to answer all of your questions - and fill you in on all you wanted to know about archery and were afraid to ask. The young and attractive ladies are Charlene Byrd (kneeling, from left) and Tammy Roberts; in the second row are Kathy Smith, Shawn Fowler Burns, Nancy Fussell and Debbie Fisher.

Worst is over for Canton

With a painful 0-9 season behind them, the worst is over for Plymouth Canton's gridders.

"We're quicker, more experienced and we'll be a better team this year," stressed Coach Dave Schuele who is beginning his third season at Canton. "We lacked punch last year - the killer instinct - but these kids have it."

"And with the modifications we have made in our offense, along with 17 returning lettermen, we're going to be better."

Schuele didn't elaborate on the changes in strategy but he did point out that his team would be using the Veer-like offense to accommodate Cherry Hill transplant, quarterback Scotty Dawson who moved into the school district last year.

The 6-3, slender 170-pound signal-caller is expected to help the Chiefs end their doldrums and he'll be calling upon the expertise of Russ Mandel, a senior who was the Chiefs' leading rusher a year ago and Joe Mallare, a fullback with a lot of power.

There are a lot of other notables in the lineup. The list includes - Jay McKinley, a 6-1, 175-pound backup quarterback who has been switched to tight end; Mike Mullins, a Canadian who is at split end; Bill VanHoose, a 6-1, 180 pound senior who has moved from the linebacker's slot to the pits - he's a tackle - and Bob Hamblin, up from the reserves along with Johnny Carr, a junior who started as a sophomore, and Steve Gray add to the Canton depth chart.

Steve Eddy, who is 6-3, 183-pounds, is the biggest man on the squad and he'll team with Hamlin at tackle. Guards Dave Tanner, entering his third senior, All-Area guard Charles Nyhus, also in his third varsity season, and centers Paul Moonet and Russ Shuman are other reasons why the Chiefs should win more than they lose.

Defensively, Canton has a few noteworthy returnees and the standouts are Steve Eddy(end), Dennis Howell(monster back), Tanner, at linebacker, and James Coch, who transferred in from River Rouge, Craig Gearn, who probably will be the lone sophomore to break into the starting line-up, will be utilized as an end after working out as an offensive tackle.

Alan Olszewski, a quick 170-pound defensive halfback has been moved to the offensive guard slot, and Mike Phillips, the shortside halfback is also returning to his job.

Schuele has a score to settle with Livonia Bentley, which snatched a victory from him and his team inlast year's opener. A last play pass gave the Livonians a come-from-behind triumph and Schuele hasn't forgotten.

And, Schuele will have to stop his own son, Tim, in order for his plans to materialize. Tim is a senior who doubles as a fullback and linebacker for the Livonians. "Our goal is to win the opener," Schuele said. "After that, we'll see."

RUSTPROOFING. EITHER YOU HAVE IT OR YOU DON'T

Car makers don't build the rustproof car and no car dealer can deliver the real rustproofing you get with the exclusive Ziebart process.

Don't be misled by some sweeping references to "anti-corrosion methods" used in building some 1978 cars. Real rust-proofing must be done after the car is built. And it must cover every critical area inside and under the car. That's the proven Ziebart method. There are no shortcuts. That's why your Ziebart Dealer uses nine different patented spray tools to reach rust-prone areas. That's why he uses a rustproofing sealant that actually penetrates welded seams where rust can start. Your Ziebart Dealer can deliver a rustproofed 1978 car because that's his business—and he knows it. Call him.

It's tough to say Good-bye to summer!

It's that time of the year again when all the fun things of summer come to a screeching halt and it's back to school again. No wonder it's so hard to say good-bye to going barefoot, taking a cool dip in the pool every afternoon and just hanging around in those precious patched up jeans. But now you can look forward to new clothes and shoes and school books. And smart parents around here have found the easy way to purchase these necessary items is to raise quick cash by selling their extras through the Classified Ads of their daily newspaper. Take a look around today and get your youngster ready for school by placing your economical ad now.
